Governor Hoffman Testifies

TRENTON, N. J., April 2.—The Mercer county grand jury, which saved Bruno Hauptmann's life Tuesday night, called Gov. Harold G. Hoffman to testify today, and the belief grew swiftly that Hauptmann again would escape the electric chair tomorrow night.

The jury investigating charges that Paul H. Wendel, rather than Hauptmann, committed the crime of the Sourland Hills for which Hauptmann has been condemned to die, also arranged to hear attorney-general David T. Wilentz, the Hauptmann prosecutor.

There were unconfirmed reports that Dr. John F. Condon, the Lindbergh ransom intermediary, also would be called.

CHARGES POPPING

The jury plunged into its renewed consideration of the Wendel case while charges were popping that Gov. Hoffman was blocking efforts to probe an alleged assault on the caretaker at the Lindbergh's abandoned Hopewell estate—the place of the Lindbergh baby kidnapping—yesterday.

Awaiting call before the jury was Ellis Parker, the Burlington county detective chief whose pri-

GOVERNOR HOFFMAN appeared before the grand jury considering Paul Wendel's repudiated confession. A high state official said the arrest of a member of the gang which wrung a "confession" from Wendel was expected shortly.

Whether Hauptmann will be executed tomorrow night or within several weeks was reported uncertain in informed circles.

In Albuquerque, N.M., the services of Dr. Florence Hawley, woman tree ring expert, were offered to Hoffman in checking identification of the kidnap ladder.

The Mercer County grand jury sought to compare the handwriting of the Lindbergh ransom notes with that of Paul H. Wendel to help determine if his "confession" of the celebrated kidnap-murder was true or false.

New York authorities searched Brooklyn to learn whether Wendel had been abducted there and mistreated to force his "confession."

Stegfin Spitz, Chicago former convict, was reported planning to come east with a story that he bought "hot" Lindbergh money from a New Jersey gang.

Mrs. Hauptmann was to pay her third "last visit" to her doomed husband.

France Masses For Diplomatic Attack On German Locarno Plan

PARIS, April 2.—French officials said today that the French government probably will ask for a speedy conference with Great Britain, Italy and Belgium and will enter the conference with the demand that Reichsfuehrer Hitler's proposals be rejected.

PARIS, April 2. — France massed her diplomatic resources today for a counter-attack against Germany's Locarno plan. Foreign Minister Flandin summoned the French ambassadors to London, Berlin, Brussels and Rome, to come to Paris for a two-fold campaign.

First: Informed sources said, the government resolved to present a strong attitude against Germany's violation of the Locarno pact by remilitarization of the Rhine and until after France's parliamentary elections, April 26 and May 3.

Second: These sources said, the government would employ tactics of delay while searching for a peace plan more favorable to France.

French sources saw Hitler's proposals for a non-aggression system as a "cunning plan" to split the Locarno powers and to make Der Fuehrer dictator of Europe.

Official sources, declaring Hitler's proposals "unacceptable" to France, looked for the government to insist upon an immediate reunion of Britain, France, Belgium and Italy, signatories to the Locarno pact violating

Premier Loses Personally In Bond Default

Premier William Aberhart joined the large number of Alberta bondholders waiting in vain for their money when the provincial maturing issues of $3,200,000 went into default on Wednesday, as it was learned in reliable quarters that the Premier himself holds many bonds on which payment was not made.

Questioned on this point on Thursday, the Premier said that he held bonds maturing on Wednesday in a small amount.

"Will you say how much you hold in this issue?" he was asked.

"No, but not a great deal."

"Did you present your coupons for interest payments?" he was asked.

"No," he replied.

Answering further questions, the Premier stated that he had no further statement to make as whether a loan was to be met either by the Dominion, or the Imperial bank. He said nothing further had come to hand.

"Have you any further proposals to make regarding meeting the loan?" he was asked.

"None," he replied.

ASMARA, Eritrea, April 1—(By wireless to Rome, April 2)—Italy's northern army and the personal troops of Emperor Haile Selassie manoeuvred carefully today toward what was considered the impending death struggle of the war in Ethiopia.

The Ethiopian Emperor withdrew his forces to the heights overlooking Lake Ashangi, 30 miles south of Amba Alaji, to await the second phase of the decisive encounter—expected to be an attack by the army of Marshal Pietro Badoglio.

40 KILLED IN SOUTH STORM

CORDELE, Ga., April 2.—Spring wind and rain storms killed 40 persons in the southeast today. City Manager John Brown reported, and did more than $1,000,000 property damage, with the major fatalities centred at this South Georgia city.

"At least 33 were killed in Cordele," Brown said, "eight white persons and 25 negroes."

Rescue agencies swung into action immediately, proceeding to the scene by train and over rain-drenched highways.

TWO KILLED BY MONOXIDE GAS

MONCTON, April 2—Bodies of a man, tentatively identified as J. L. Roy of Moncton, and his stenographer, Miss Ethel Bannon, were found early today, slumped on the rear seat of a motor car on the lonely Salisbury road, about three and a half miles from the city outskirts.

Police said they had died apparently from carbon monoxide fumes escaping from the exhaust pipe, broken almost below the seat.

U.S. RECOVERY FORGES AHEAD IN BIG STRIDE

Business Analysts Look for Best Season In Years

NEW YORK, April 2.—America's economic recovery has forged ahead in the quarter of 1936 ending today, leading business analysts generally to anticipate the best spring in six years.

Steel production has just risen well over 60 per cent of capacity for the first time since the summer of 1930. Merchants of many cities report that Easter shopping has already swelled to the largest volume in several years.

Automobile production ran well over 1,000,000 units in the first three months of this year. The first quarter total is almost triple the low level of the same period of 1933.

Building, one of the laggard heavy lines upon which recovery hopes lean heavily, made pronounced strides.

The movement of freight—one of the favorite measures of the total volume of trade—appears to have gained some 36 per cent over 1933.

ST ANNE DE BELLEVUE, Que., April 2—Farmers at Vaudreuil and Macdonald College looked with pride today on rows of dark furrows in their fields, signifying a provincial record for early season ploughing had been established.

OTTAWA HOLDS OUT HOPES OF ALBERTA LOAN

Consideration Will be Given if Alberta Presents Suggestions to Which Dominion Can Subscribe

By THOMAS WAYLING

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

OTTAWA, April 2.—There is still a light in the financial window for Alberta, if Alberta can see the light, Hon. C. A. Dunning, Minister of Finance, declared at a press conference Wednesday that the door is not closed against Alberta; that is if Premier Aberhart could present a constructive suggestion to which the Dominion can subscribe, most sympathetic consideration would be given.

"Dominion bonds were strongery in New York Wednesday," said Hon. Mr. Dunning, "our move being regarded as strengthening, rather than otherwise, so far as Dominion bonds are concerned. So far as provincial bonds are concerned, the situation is more or less demoralized, for everybody is marking time to see what happens.

"In London the reaction was pretty well anticipated. Our action was pretty well approved and there was no price break.

"In Canada, the market for Dominion bonds was a little weaker, opening about one-eighth down, and then about even, and finally running along on even keel.

MARKET QUIET

"With respect to western provincial bonds, the market has been quiet and it would be difficult to say if anything has happened."

Hon. Mr. Dunning outlined the events leading up to the birth of the loan council idea; the Dominion-provincial conference, continuing committee, provincial treasurers and finally the later conference of attorney-generals.

Many schemes had been canvassed, and finally there was unanimity as this method offered the best plan. Arrangements were made for the continuing committee to work out details. This committee had been unanimously in favor of the Dominion going ahead with the creation of this vehicle.

ALL IT IS

"That is all it is," said Hon. Mr. Dunning, "a vehicle, and anybody can ride on it who wants to. Then (the provincial treasurers) went away and it was understood we would go ahead and we did so. We sent a draft of the proposal to the

CITY SHOCKED OVER DECREASE RELIEF GRANT

Commissioners Hoped For Increase Instead of Cut In Contribution

Announcement Thursday that the Dominion government plans to reduce its direct relief grant to Alberta from $175 000 a month to $148,750, a cut of 15 per cent, comes as a distinct shock to city commissioners, since the province intends to slash its grant to Edmonton as a result of the federal action.

Commenting on the announcement, Commissioner David Mitchell said: "We are very much disappointed to learn of the proposed reduction. We had hoped the contribution would have been increased to relieve the city of what we consider to be a federal responsibility. The position of the cities as far as relief costs are concerned is sufficiently acute to warrant an increase in the grant rather than a decrease."

HARDER HIT

Civic officials claim that Edmonton will be harder hit than Calgary in this connection, since Edmonton receives only $60,000 a month toward relief costs while Calgary gets $80,000. In a recent interview with Premier Aberhart, commissioners asked that the grant to Edmonton be brought more in line with that given Calgary. The Premier promised to take the matter under consideration, but to date has announced no decision.

The four-month relief agreement between the province and cities expired April 1.

NEW BILL MAY BE BLESSING FOR DEBTORS

Payments On Mortgages In Past Three Years May Be On Principal

Denying that there was any thought on the government's part of introducing amendments to the Debt Adjustment Act which would be virtually a moratorium, Premier William Aberhart on Tuesday pointed to the fact that in repealing the Agricultural Stabilization Act, what was practically a moratorium, was being wiped out.

The premier, however, stated that consideration was being given to amending debt adjustment legislation that would get personal debts in such a way that both principle and interest would be paid.

Hon. Mr. Aberhart pointed out that discussion also centred around a provision that all payments on mortgages made in the last three years should be credited to principal, whether paid as interest during that time or not.

He pointed out that the Debt Adjustment act as it has stood, just meant the gyrating of debts and not paying them off.

"The bill we are considering is not yet in shape," he said.

"Is there any truth in rumors circulating that your amendments will be, in effect, a moratorium?" the premier was asked.

"There is no idea of such action," he replied. "We want to get a settlement of debts without evictions. We are opposed to evictions except in those cases where no effort has been made to meet indebtedness.

"The removal of the Agricultural Stabilization act was not intended to put a hardship on anyone doing his best, who has been hindered by circumstances beyond his control. We are only hoping to assist in working out a solution of private debts problems."

FURTHER EXPLAINS

Asked to further expand on the situation, the Premier said that "The whole idea is to take the debts away back before 1932 and try to make some arrangement by which there would be a possibility of having a basis on which the government and creditors can act fairly and with justice. We feel that the present Debt Adjustment

Twenty-three horses ran. Finalist, a four-year-old brown gelding, by Winalot-Finery, was quoted at 100 to 8. Guinea Gap was quoted at 100 to 7, and Pepino at 100 to 9.

LOAN CORRESPONDENCE TABLED IN OTTAWA HOUSE OF COMMONS

OTTAWA, April 2.—Refusal of Premier Aberhart to accept the proposed loan council control of future borrowings, coupled with his announced intention to convert outstanding obligations at a lowered interest rate, prompted the Dominion government to refuse the loan required to prevent Wednesday's default by Alberta on a bond maturity of $3,200,000.

Finance Minister Dunning tabled in the House of Commons yesterday copies of the letters and telegrams exchanged between the two governments since March 17.

The last communication was a telegram from Mr. Dunning to Mr. Aberhart, dated March 30, in which the dominion finance minister refused to accept the natural resources settlement payable to Alberta as collateral for the requested loan.

APPLY RESOURCES

Mr. Dunning advised Mr. Aberhart that the natural resources award, $5,000,000 and interest, would be applied against what the province already owed the federal treasury—$24,749,000.

Previously Mr. Aberhart had offered to assign subsidies due Alberta from the dominion as collateral for the loan, but Mr. Dunning replied that there was no constitutional power for such assignment until the proposed loan council plan is made statutory.

It was shown that the stumbling block was mainly the refusal of Mr. Aberhart to accept the obligations laid down in the loan council scheme. This scheme was drawn up at a dominion-provincial conference in January at which Provincial Treasurer Charles Cockroft represented Alberta. Mr. Cockroft approved the scheme on behalf of his province.

Mr. Aberhart declared the plan was not sufficiently clear to him to justify his committing the province. An alteration in the constitution is no light matter. No ince in advance. Mr. Dunning replied that the details were amply clear and understood.

LEGISLATION DELAYED

It was shown in the correspondence that the legislation leading to amendments of the constitution that would empower the government to set up loan councils as proposed, has been delayed while Mr. Dunning awaited from Mr. Aberhart assurance he would make the request to the Crown unanimous—as was the case at the Dominion-provincial conference in January.

Refusal of Premier Aberhart to Accept Dunning Proposals Results in Alberta Default of $3,200,000 Bonds

Early in the negotiations Mr. Dunning suggested that a conference of the four western governments with the federal government be held at once to discuss the problem of finance that would arise during the interim between the lapse of pending legislation under the relief act which expired last night, and the enactment of a new loan council legislation.

BOTH TOO BUSY

Mr. Aberhart and his provincial treasurer were both too busy with the legislative session to attend such a conference, the correspondence indicated, but agreed to come to Ottawa after the session and after their April 1 maturity had been dealt with.

Finance Minister Dunning read to the House of Commons the record of correspondence passing between himself and Premier Aberhart, and Hon. Charles Cockroft, Alberta provincial treasurer, relating to provincial bonds which fell due yesterday.

On March 12th, Mr. Cockroft wrote Mr. Dunning as follows:

"I regret very much I am obliged to approach you again on a matter which is, I am sure, of as much concern to yourself as it is to me. It should hardly be necessary for me to remind you that there is a debenture issue of $3,200,000 falling due on April 1. I dislike very much making this approach, but the issues are so vital that I thought I had better communicate with you and let you know how far I could go in regard to this maturity.

"We have in the sinking fund available on this issue, $354,000, and in addition we can add to this figure $196,000, a total of $550,000; the balance to be made up of $2,650,000, we wish you would advance to us on the same terms and conditions as applied to our January 15th maturity."

SENT PROVINCIAL BUDGET

"I sent you the 1936-37 provincial budget, which I doubt if you have had time to peruse. You will note, however, that we have provided for a substantial increase in revenue by additional taxation. Changing the procedure which has been followed in past years, we have dealt with unemployment relief as a current income expenditure. In view of its continuing character we feel that this procedure is sound and if our increased estimated revenue is realized and no unforeseen expenditures of any magnitude have

FORCED REFUND BILL IS PRINTED

Far-Reaching Powers Contained in Provincial Loans Refunding Act

Implementing an announcement that startled the financial world last week, the bill to empower the provincial government to carry out compulsory refunding in whole or in part, of its total funded and unfunded debt of $160,000,000 was printed and circulated to members of the house on Wednesday.

Far-reaching powers are contained in the bill, which is entitled the Provincial Loans Refunding act.

Under this measure, the government is empowered to declare that holders of any provincial security shall accept in place of that security, perpetual government stock, the interest rate on which shall be not less than two and one-half per cent, or in the alternative, any other bonds or debentures issued under the act for a principal sum of like amount.

PREMIER SAYS LOAN TROUBLE DELAYS PLANS

Tells London Paper $25 Dividends Likely be Put Off Longer

By THOMAS T. CHAMPION
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, April 2.—The Daily Express today published an interview by telephone with Premier Aberhart of Alberta concerning that province's default on two of its bond issues.

"We defaulted because we had not the money to pay. But our banks will back the issue—at least we hope so," the Express quoted Aberhart as saying.

The interview took place yesterday.

The Premier resumed: "I had a conference with the banks this morning. We have got things arranged."

"Have the banks?" asked the interviewer.

JUST HOPING

"Well, I won't say that. We are hoping," said Aberhart.

"And the electors?"

"They are taking it all right, at least I hope so. I am not worried. No sir, I am not resigning, that is not air," continued the Social Credit Premier.

"We are going right ahead with Social Credit," he continued. "It may be 18 months, it may be a bit longer before we begin to pay that 25 a month dividend for all.

SUFFERS SETBACK

"This trouble sets us back a bit."

"And when is a National Credit Bank going to be established?" asked the interviewer.

"About 18 months for that or a bit longer," responded Aberhart. "You see this bit of trouble does not help. There may be more trouble from the Dominion government. I don't know. It is a hard job being premier. We are up against what people say about us and we want money."

RELIEF DEBTS BAN ASPIRANTS FROM OFFICE

Saskatchewan Legislature Rejects Amendment to City Act

REGINA, April 2—Relief debts to a city remain as disqualification to aspirants for civic office by action of the legislature taken Wednesday.

This was accomplished when an amendment to the City Act aimed to remove this disqualification was voted down in committee of the whole when the City Act was under review.

To get the true picture of what the legislature has done regarding this question, it is necessary to take into consideration changes which have been made in both the City Act, and the Saskatchewan Evidence Act.

Attention is focussed on these two pieces of legislation because it is these two acts which come under the spotlight in the recent unseating proceedings against Aldermen Mikkelson and McManus of Regina.

RESULTS SUMMARIZED

Summarizing the results of the alterations made by the legislature in the two acts, the result in future cases of the same nature will be as follows:

1—A man indebted to the city for relief assistance is disqualified from accepting nomination.

2—Action to unseat a member believed to be disqualified properly to sit in council, must be taken under the controverted elections act.

3—Recusant persons in summary conviction proceedings for enforcement of civil rights under provincial statutes remain compellable witnesses, and their wives are compellable witnesses, but they cannot be sent to jail if convicted under such circumstances, nor can they be sent to jail for non-payment of a fine. They will, however, be subject to sentence for contempt of court.

RETAINED IN ACT

The relief debt disqualification was retained in the city act when Premier Patterson, as a private member, introduced an amendment to strike out the disqualifying clause. This amendment was defeated.

Mr. Patterson, in moving the amendment, stated that he did so because former Premier J. G. Gardiner had advised the union such an amendment would be brought into the house. He made it clear that no assurances had been given that the amendment would be put through.

Mrs. Anna Hauptmann Carries News of New Death Date to Bruno

By MARY ELIZABETH PLUMMER
Associated Press Staff Writer

TRENTON, N.J., April 2—Mrs. Anna Hauptmann carried to her husband the news Wednesday of his new death date.

"It's eight o'clock Friday night, Richard," she told him.

Hauptmann heard the news calmly, but his wife wept intermittently through the longest visit she has paid to the prison.

Col. Mark O. Kimberling, warden, said Hauptmann's wife spent 45 minutes talking with him, but she was in the prison almost two hours.

FAINT ANSWER

"All right," was her faint answer, later, to the question, "How did Richard react to the news?"

"And how are you?"

"All right," she repeated.

She went twice to the prison, but was unable to see her husband on her first visit, in early afternoon, because another visitor was in the death house.

She left, after waiting inside for half an hour, and returned an hour later.

MORE COMPOSED

Hauptmann was more composed than Tuesday when she arrived, but his eyes were red. Mrs. Hauptmann's face was a wan contrast to her tan-checked spring suit, gay yellow blouse and silver fox scarf.

While waiting inside the prison to see her husband, she reviewed yesterday's happenings with Col. Kimberling.

"I said something would happen," she told the warden, "and it did."

Mrs. Hauptmann has been permitted another visit today.

SEEMED TO DROOP

She seemed to droop as the sunny day waned, and the air grew chilly and cold. In the morning, her high spirits brought a word of warning from Lieut. Robert W. Hicks, special investigator for Governor Hoffman, who told her—

"Things look better, Mrs. Hauptmann, but don't build up false hopes."

BRUNO'S FATE TOTTERS TILL FRIDAY NIGHT

May Get Further Reprieve If Wendel Mystery Jury Disagree

TRENTON, April 2.—A high state official said today an arrest was expected shortly of a member of the abduction gang which wrung a "confession" to the Lindbergh baby killing from Paul H. Wendel, disbarred Trenton attorney.

TRENTON, N. J., April 2.—Bruno Richard Hauptmann, who has lived beyond three of his death dates, faced a new one Friday night at eight o'clock—but under conditions which made it extremely doubtful he would die even then for the Lindbergh baby murder.

Col. Mark O. Kimberling, state prison warden, moved the death time back a day later than was asked by the Mercer county (Trenton) grand jury, whose unexpected intervention halted the execution on the hour set for 11 Tuesday night.

STILL FURTHER DELAY

Failure of the grand jury to reach a decision by Friday night in the strange case of Paul Wendel, held on a murder charge for the Lindbergh crime which condemned Hauptmann, would bring a still further delay, Kimberling said.

"I will delay it as long as it is in my power to do so while a legal proceeding of any kind is pending," the warden said.

COURT MANDATE

He was faced on the one hand by a court mandate requiring him to have Hauptmann put to death during the current week, and on the other by the prospect another man might be indicted for the same crime.

If the dilemma is not solved by Saturday night, Kimberling said he would seek advice from supreme court Justice Thomas W. Trenchard, who signed Hauptmann's death warrant, on whether the "week of March 30" for which he fixed the execution, ends Saturday or Sunday night.

WOULD REQUIRE ORDER

The warden explained that if Wendel were indicted for the murder, it would require an order from a court or some other "competent authority" to delay the execution beyond the current week.

Governor Harold Hoffman, of New Jersey, has indicated no change in his plan against any other reprieve, which he has been informed he has no legal right to grant. But his statements regarding it mentioned the possibility of "starting new developments" which might justify some form of action to prevent the execution.

HAD CHECKED UP

In announcing the new tentative date, the warden disclosed he had "checked up with" Governor Hoffman before fixing it.

Attorney-General David T. Wilentz, who has contended all along that Hauptmann alone was responsible for the kidnapping and death of the Lindbergh baby, said he would not attend the execution if the grand jury failed to indict Wendel.

Meantime Hauptmann gathered renewed hope in his cell among the condemned. The utter despair that enveloped him when he wrote a farewell letter to Governor Hoffman apparently had gone.

Wendel Offers Wave Immunity

By WILLIAM A. KINNEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

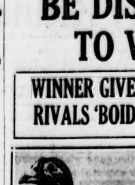

TRENTON, N.J., April 2—Paul H. Wendel, author and repudiator of the Lindbergh kidnaping "confessions," offered to waive immunity Wednesday and appear before the Trenton Mercer county grand jury which delayed Bruno Richard Hauptmann's execution for 10 days by an unprecedented legal manoeuvre.

His offer went before the grand jury for consideration as well authenticated information came from the state's handling of the repudiation of the complaint which charges Wendel, disbarred lawyer and erstwhile druggist, with the Lindbergh baby's murder.

So split was the jury that a high legal source at the court house said the body would "Have a hard time in finding any indictment."

Conservatives Indicate Opposition As Measure Passes Through House Of Commons.

OTTAWA, April 2—The government bill to distribute $6,850,000 to western farmers who sold wheat and coarse grains through the pools in 1930, passed through the House of Commons Wednesday and was sent to the senate for consideration. Conservatives shouted "no division" when the Speaker put the motion, indicating their opposition but not forcing a recorded vote.

GOES TO FARMERS

The money will go to farmers who sold wheat in 1930 below the 60-cent initial price set by the pools. Of the total, $250,000 will be distributed among coarse grain farmers, representing profits made on their crops by John I. McFarland, head of the central selling agency of the wheat pool, who was operating on Dominion credit.

CRITICISM RENEWED

Conservative leader Bennett renewed Wednesday his criticism of the pools, and said the bill which he insisted was based on inaccurate statements and false deductions.

Premier King agreed ordinarily it was inadvisable to have any preambles in bills but sometimes they were desirable.

SATISFIED FACTS TRUE

The Prime Minister said the ministry of agriculture was satisfied the facts of the preamble were true. He was minded to take his word for it and declined to act as a sort of referee between Mr. Gardiner and the opposition leader.

NEW BILL MAY BE BLESSING FOR DEBTORS

Act merely settles up a debt without an arrangement for payment thereof. As it is at present we feel that the Debt Adjustment Act destroys the morale of the farm people as well as others."

"Is there any amending bill to the Debt Adjustment Act approved yet?" the Premier was asked.

"No. Mr. Hagar has been having conferences with the mortgage men and I understand the discussions have not yet been completed."

"Is there any truth in the report that the amending bill provides that all actions for debt outstanding since July, 1932, shall be declared null and void?" he was asked.

"This is not so," he replied.

NOT CONSIDERED

"Is there any truth in the report that the amending bill will provide that no new actions for debt shall be taken between now and Jan. 1, 1937?" he was asked.

"This also is not so," he replied.

There has been discussion, said the premier, on several other points, including the possibility that in any actions taken after Jan. 1 next that judgments can be obtained only on the understanding that payments are to be made over a 10-year period and without interest. Discussion also has taken place on the question that all payments on mortgages made in the last three years are to be credited as principal payments whether paid as interest at the time or not.

"Anything definite on these points is premature," said the Premier. "We are continuing discussions and consideration is being given to the amendments. But nothing has been decided yet."

In view of the session being on its concluding days, it is learned in well informed circles that the amending bill actually may not be brought in.

SCHOOL REFORM SUGGESTED HERE

Emphasizing the need for educational reconstruction in Alberta, owing to the fact that more than 90 per cent of the public taxes are taking secondary (high school) education today, Dr. M. E. Lazerte, School of Education, University of Alberta, outlined the proposed changes that will be brought about to the Optimist club Thursday noon. His subject was, "Why reorganize education in Alberta?"

The new system will consist of three divisions, elementary, intermediate and high school. In the elementary group pupil activity will be the keynote. In the intermediate section the pupil will be given sufficient variety in order to determine where his main interest lies. In the high school section the pupil will be trained for the entrance into the world about him, or for normal school and university.

WINDSOR, Ont., April 2—Mrs. Mary Jane Labelle of Corbeil, a midwife for 29 years—"just to help out the neighbors"—was in critical condition today in hospital here. The 58-year-old woman, who assisted at the birth of the Dionne Quintuplets in May, 1934, was injured in an automobile accident late yesterday.

Hospital authorities said Mrs. Labelle had an even chance of recovering and that four others in the ditched car, including Mrs. Alexander Legros, who also assisted in delivering the Dionne babies, were not seriously hurt.

CHARGES HOFFMAN

Anthony M. Hauck, Jr., the Hunterdon County prosecutor when the chief assistant to Wilentz in the Hauptmann prosecution at Flemington early last year, charged at the state house that Gov. Hoffman was blocking his efforts to learn who committed an alleged assault and battery yesterday upon Joseph Lyons, the caretaker of the Lindbergh estate near Hopewell.

Hauck said five men visited the estate yesterday in defiance of demands by Lyons that they get out. When they left, Hauck said, they drove their car so that the caretaker was forced to leap from its path or be run down.

An effort to learn from the state motor vehicle department who owned the car in which the five intruders rode was met with the statement that Governor Hoffman had taken the record of registration from there, and that it could be obtained only from him.

TORONTO, April 2—Mr. Justice Nicol Jeffrey has dismissed an appeal of G. T. Clarkson, liquidator of Solloway, Mills and Co., Ltd. (Dominion company) from a decision of D. E. Solloway, Westmount, Que., to give security for costs of his appeal against judgment of the assistant master in malfeasance proceedings against Solloway.

Mr. Lennox held in his judgment that Solloway was liable as a director and officer of Solloway, Mills & Co., Ltd., for payment to the liquidator of the corporation of approximately $2,500,000 alleged to have been improperly paid out of the company's funds.

ed by Germany's remilitarization of the Rhineland.

French officials and press alike agreed that acceptance of Hitler's proposals would mean an end to France's present role in Europe and bring her to rapid isolation. Hitler's program, if carried out, undoubtedly would "plunge Europe into blood and fire," the noted foreign affairs expert Pertinax wrote in an interpretative representation of the bulk of informed French comment.

LONDON, April 3—Acceptance of many of Reichsfuehrer Hitler's counter-proposals for safeguarding the peace of western Europe was indicated in authoritative quarters last night after a lengthy cabinet meeting.

The government let it be known it regards the proposals as conciliatory, valuable and worthy of negotiation, despite the fact Hitler has shown no penitence for his march into the Rhineland.

OFFICIALS DUBIOUS

Officials here, however, appeared to be dubious that the French and the Belgians would as quickly see merit in Germany's suggestions.

Hitler's program was handed to Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden Wednesday by Joachim von Ribbentrop, special German ambassador, along with an almost complete rejection of the proposals France, Britain, Belgium and Italy put forward a fortnight ago.

Hitler Program Made Public

BERLIN, April 2.—Chancellor Hitler's long-awaited program to insure peace in Western Europe, embracing 25-year peace pacts with France and Belgium and Germany's return to the League of Nations, was delivered Wednesday to the British government.

The lengthy document, one of the most important pronouncements on foreign policy by Der Fuehrer in his three years as chancellor was hailed in official quarters here as a constructive and far-reaching move.

The general move was that Hitler's program, outlined in counter-proposals follows his rejection of the plan drawn by the four Locarno powers, goes much further than Hitler's original proposals advanced March 7 when he denounced the Locarno treaty.

Germany currently desires to help promote the peace of Europe.

"The German people is determined, under all circumstances, to safeguard its freedom and its independence and, therewith, its equality. It desires, with the most upright heart, to co-operate with all its power in the great work of general reconciliation and understanding among European nations."

President Wilson's 14 points as the basis upon which Germany signed the Great War Armistice in 1918, "envisaged no restrictions whatsoever of Germany's sovereignty in the Rhineland . . . the demilitarization provisions of the Versailles treaty, hence, rest upon the violation of the assurances given Germany and the sole legal argument to back them was force."

Reichsfuehrer Hitler's well-known arguments as to why Germany considers the Locarno treaty no longer binding are repeated.

BIG DECLINE IN NATIONAL WEALTH OF CANADA

CHANGES AIM TO PREVENT MONOPOLIES

Bill For Licensing Fuel Oil Dealers Will Be Amended

Drafted to prevent establishment of monopolies, amendments to the bill for licensing fuel oil dealers introduced by Hon. Ernest C. Manning, minister of trade and industry, on Wednesday, provide for making regulations prescribing the maximum number of filling stations, garages, buildings or other places of business where fuel oil may be kept for sale by wholesale and retail.

Oil company representatives, in appearing before the legislative agricultural committee on Monday, had mooted possibility of monopolies.

MAXIMUM AMOUNT

In another amendment, it is provided that the government can make regulations prescribing the maximum amount of fuel oil which a licensee can deal in, distribute, receive, either wholesale or retail, in any specified period or area.

Speaking to these amendments, the Minister said that provision was made for operation of a quota system. He declared that establishment of a monopoly was the last thing desired by the government.

Amendments meant that the Board of Public Utilities Commissioners could decide that a company could maintain control over a maximum of 60 or 75 per cent of the number of outlets in any one place, while the rest should be open to competitors.

SECTION STRUCK OUT

Struck out was the section providing that every person selling fuel oil by weight shall state on the invoice, the specific gravity of the oil.

Process was reported on the bill providing for a tax on fuel oil, which broadens the tax to take in the lower grades and with which the government expects to obtain $200,000 revenue over and above the revenue derived last year from this source.

The committee was informed by the minister that 12,000,000 gallons of fuel oil had been non-taxable last year and even with rebate ranging from 60 to 70 per cent. it was felt that there would be still the additional revenue estimated from this source.

TO INSERT WORD

It was agreed by the committee to insert the word "knowingly" into that section providing that "no person shall use or consume any fuel oil unless the tax payable in respect thereof, pursuant to this act has been paid."

Collection of the tax on oil imported from Montana produced considerable discussion. It was suggested by E. P. Foster, S.C., Didsbury that the tax should be collected at the time of crossing the line. The minister thought the idea good if it could be carried out, but the difficulty was that the permit now had power to collect only from the consumer and not from the person who brought in the fuel oil.

COMPULSORY REFUND BILL IS PRINTED

be to retire and refund the securities for provincial treasury bills, or for other provincial indebtedness.

It is claimed by the government that by refunding on sale any provincial debt, the annual interest bill of about $7,000,000 will be reduced by $3,000,000.

In the legislature on Wednesday Hon. Charles Cockroft, provincial treasurer, moved second reading of the bill.

IMPORTANT BILL

"This is a most important bill," observed L. A. Giroux, Liberal, Grouard. "and I would ask that it stand over." This was agreeable to the minister.

The sweeping nature of the bill is tempered to some extent by the fact that it comes into force, not upon assent, as is usually the case, but upon proclamation, which may be soon and may be never.

It is said in some quarters that the bill is not constitutional and it is understood that its validity already has been referred to legal authority for expression of opinion.

In the correspondence between Premier Aberhart and Hon. C. A. Dunning, Dominion finance minister in regard to refunding in general and with special regard to the application for a loan to meet the April 1 maturity, the Premier mentioned that the plan called only for immediate refunding of $87,000,000, for which the perpetual stock would be issued. This amount would take care of all bonds due up to 1941, which would obviate meeting any maturity for that time.

Also included in the $87,000,000 would be the $9,000,000 invested in provincial savings certificates and the higher rate treasury bills.

ISSUE PERPETUAL STOCK

Under provisions of the bill the government can create and issue in the perpetuities and other securities replace previous debt issues which have been called in. Power also is given the government, to declare, at the end of 35 years, that issues or part thereof, can be redeemed for cash at face value at any time the cabinet may decide. If no move is made to redeem this stock it remains out until the end of all time in the same manner that British Consols have operated throughout the last century.

It is provided that the perpetual stock can be issued for any specific purpose and to redeem or retire any issue of treasury bills or any bond issue. There is one exception to this, namely, that no issue of such perpetual stock can be called and refunded by any other issue of similar stock.

TWO ALTERNATIVES

There are two alternatives provided for the government to decide for the retirement of existing debts, namely, that the province may issue any of the bonds, debentures issued pursuant to the Provincial Loans Act for a principal sum of like amount to the debt, or the province can state that any specified security when its ordinary maturity date is postponed to a fixed present time, is to be redeemed in cash.

It is claimed in financial circles that if the Imperial Bank had advanced necessary funds to meet the Wednesday maturity, the loan being met in the customary way by treasury bills, the province would have been able to bring this under the refunding bill and refunded, paying the stock within a short time, an interest rate less than that agreed to.

Indebtedness to the Dominion government as a result of its guarantees would be excepted under provisions of the bill.

NO EAGERNESS LIKELY

It is pointed out that as the Dominion declined the loan, even when preferred by the Imperial Bank and to retire an old issue, there is little likelihood of the Dominion showing any eagerness in the future to advance guarantees for provincial securities which obliterate present obligations, in the interest rate, and do away with principal payment on maturity.

DOOR IS NOT YET CLOSED TO ALBERTA

objections were received from the provinces.

"Then the conference of Attorney-Generals discussed the constitutional questions and again there were no objections. It later developed, however, that Alberta had objections judging by what was said in their legislature and in the press. "Either we did not understand them or they did not understand us."

HAD DIFFICULTIES

"British Columbia also had difficulties when their attorney-general reported back. That was why I thought a further conference was necessary," added Hon. Mr. Dunning, who referred to the proposal in his telegram to Premier Aberhart for a conference of western premiers with him.

"Apart from the constitutional aspect there were objections from some of the parties it was designed to help. I wanted to be absolutely certain. One might introduce a bill into this parliament but it is a matter of what use it has to go to the Imperial parliament and some of the parties object. We wanted to be as unanimous as possible."

Hon. Mr. Dunning indicated that Premier Aberhart was coming to Ottawa to discuss the issue. British Columbia's next maturity is May 15 and Premier Pattullo has indicated a desire to come down and discuss matters before Easter.

NO OBJECTIONS

Manitoba had no objections, taking the ground she was in such position that she would not need to take advantage of the Loan Council plan.

Saskatchewan had a reservation in principle, the holding that where the province had been under a Loan Council for five, ten or fifteen years and then improved her position so that she no longer needed machinery, they should be able to withdraw. Hon. Mr. Dunning did not see why this could not be arranged.

The machinery of a National Loan Council, Hon. Mr. Dunning pointed out, was to guarantee the public finances of Canada and put them on a basis they had never been on before. If a scheme such as this could go into operation for five or ten years no one would ever dream of any other way of handling public finance.

NOT DRAFTED YET

Asked if the Loan Council bill had been submitted to the provinces, Hon. Mr. Dunning intimated it had not because the bill had not yet been drafted. What was before parliament now was the resolution. The whole matter, however, had been under discussion by the provinces at the conferences.

Premier Aberhart's objection had been that it would be difficult for Alberta to decide how much Alberta could borrow.

"We say 'yes'," commented Hon. Mr. Dunning, "but when, you get a Dominion guarantee the Dominion must always be in a position to determine how much it will guarantee from time to time."

LOOSES SECURITY

Premier Aberhart's latest proposals involve an apparent way of getting around that, continued the minister. "By giving as securities Dominion subsidies." Weakness is that is that he pledges all his security to us. You cannot borrow security of a province that is already pledged. They will undoubtedly get a Dominion guarantee if we agree to that. The issue is that the Dominion shall control at all times the extent to which its guarantee is used.

Premier Aberhart's scheme was not a complete one. It was entirely superficially out of thin air as a means of getting out of the present situation. It definitely antagonizes amongst Alberta's bondholders.

NO SUCH BONDS

"Assume we had given in today," said Hon. Mr. Dunning, "the figures of bonds maturing today would get 100 cents on the dollar. Others would be forced to take proposed three per cent. perpetual bonds. There are no such bonds extant at present issued by any Canadian government. There are perpetual stocks held in London of Canadian Pacific and Grand Trunk Railways and British Consols are perpetual. The British government, however, only issues Consols when credit is very high; and so there is always a market for them."

Asked if his action would be the same with respect to other provinces, Hon. Mr. Dunning stated definitely—"We would apply the same principles to all provinces. The government cannot go on loaning money to provinces to meet maturities without impairing the credit of the Dominion."

KEEP CREDIT SWEET

"My job is to keep the credit of the Dominion sweet. The Dominion is now a creditor nation to four western provinces. Can you visualize the situation should we continue to build more bonds than those provinces' bonds. Just think of the possibilities."

Asked if Liberal provinces had been in the same position whether they would apply for any guarantee, Hon. Mr. Dunning pointed out that Saskatchewan had bonds maturing a month or so ago and had arranged to finance the maturities herself. If the situation had arisen with another province instead of Alberta, the same steps would have been taken.

ONLY PRACTICAL WAY

With respect to the possibility that Alberta might still agree to the National Loan Council and meet the Dominion's conditions, Hon. Mr. Dunning said, "This is the only practical way to do it and fix the thing up. I sincerely believe, and so does the government, that our proposals represents the only practical way of dealing with the situation. The provisions of round-up bills will not carry along as is. This doesn't mean that we won't advance money to Alberta and other provinces who are unable to meet their shares of relief costs.

"We have to assume control over the authority to loan money," said Hon. Mr. Dunning. We are determined about this. If anyone has a better scheme we want to know of it. What the future holds with respect to the Loan Council will depend on what happens next month.

TRIBUTE TO SINCERITY

The minister paid tribute to Alberta's sincerity. "Aberhart is paying interest which indicates this is the best thing he could do with his money. He is meeting interest coupons on this issue."

Hon. Mr. Dunning felt that Premier Aberhart's plan discriminated against the Canadian and American investor. The London investor was to get his money in full but others were to come under Aberhart's refunding proposals.

Asked if he would go ahead with his Loan Council scheme without Alberta, Hon. Mr. Dunning said, "We cannot say with any certainty that we would involve going ahead with constitutional amendments without unanimity. Rt. Hon. R. Bennett has pointed out that could be done under the Statute of Westminster. It would not do to have separate mortgages on private province, the minister added, there must be general principle. This one had been arrived at after half a dozen ideas had been considered.

DIDN'T HEARD WORD

Asked if Ontario had expressed any change of view since the conferences, Hon. Mr. Dunning said, "We haven't heard any such word from Ontario."

The minister declared that he believed Premier Aberhart absolutely sincere. The present situation would not necessarily affect the Social Credit movement. If it is a good thing it will go ahead just the same," said Hon. Mr. Dunning.

Statistics Show Present Wealth of Province Of Alberta is $2,035,000,000

OTTAWA, April 2.—A decline in the national wealth of Canada from the peak year of 1929 to the end of 1933, was estimated at $5-$97,000,000 as a result of a survey conducted by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The figures were released Wednesday by Hon. W. D. Euler, minister of trade and commerce. The 1929 estimate was $31,215,000,000 and the 1933 estimate $25,618,000,000.

Farm values shrunk from $6,300,000,000 to $4,760,000,000 and agricultural production in possession of the farmers had been cut in half. The value of urban real property dropped from $8,221,000,000 to $6,913,000,000, and forests from $2,299,000,000 to $2,000,000,000, household furnishings and equipment from $1,370,000,000 to $913,000,000, manufactures from $2,259,000,000 to $1,941,000,000, railways, hand steam railways' investment in road and equipment have grown from $3,321,000,000 to $3,365,000,000, telephones from $291,000,000 to $330,000,000.

ONTARIO LEADS

Ontario, as previously, leads the provinces in national wealth with $8,705,000,000, or 34 per cent. of the whole. It was $10,655,000,000 in 1929.

The following is the wealth of western provinces, with the 1929 figure in brackets: Saskatchewan, $2,527,000,000 ($3,088,000,000); British Columbia, $2,430,000,000 ($2,756,000,000); Alberta, $2,035,000,000 ($2,427,000,000); Manitoba, $1,562,000,000 ($1,979,000,000); Yukon, $118,000,000 ($15,000,000).

FREE STATE HAS DEFICIT

DUBLIN, April 2.—A deficit of £368,000 (about $1,825,000) for the financial year concluded Tuesday was announced by the Irish Free State department of finance last night. Revenue for the year totalled £32,668,000 and expenditures £33,036,000.

Revenues showed an increase of £3,086,000 over last year, while expenditure increased £849,000. This year's deficit compares with a deficit of £2,605,000 for the previous financial year.

Darrow Believes Hauptmann Should Get Another Trial

TRENTON, April 2. — Governor Hoffman last night made public a telegram from Clarence Darrow, Chicago criminal lawyer, asserting belief that Bruno Richard Hauptmann, convicted Lindbergh baby slayer, should have another trial.

Darrow termed "unexceptional disapproval" of Dr. John F. (Jafsie) Condon, ransom intermediary, heretofore an unsung hero, as "unpopular the limelight." He said that Attorney General David T. Wilentz, Hauptmann's prosecutor, was wrong Dr. Condon from "coming forth with any further light on the situation."

Dunning said: "Why, I would have to try and fix the thing again. I sincerely believe, and so does the government, that our proposals represents the only practical way of dealing with the situation. The provisions of round-up bills will not carry along as is. This doesn't mean that we won't advance money to Alberta and other provinces who are unable to meet their shares of relief costs.

"We have to assume control over the authority to loan money," said Hon. Mr. Dunning. We are determined about this. If anyone has a better scheme we want to know of it. What the future holds with respect to the Loan Council will depend on what happens next month.

TRIBUTE TO SINCERITY

The minister paid tribute to Alberta's sincerity. "Aberhart is paying interest which indicates this is the best thing he could do with his money. He is meeting interest coupons on this issue."

Hon. Mr. Dunning felt that Premier Aberhart's plan discriminated against the Canadian and American investor. The London investor was to get his money in full but others were to come under Aberhart's refunding proposals.

Asked if he would go ahead with his Loan Council scheme without Alberta, Hon. Mr. Dunning said, "We cannot say with any certainty that we would involve going ahead with constitutional amendments without unanimity. Rt. Hon. R. Bennett has pointed out that could be done under the Statute of Westminster. It would not do to have separate mortgages on private province, the minister added, there must be general principle. This one had been arrived at after half a dozen ideas had been considered.

DIDN'T HEARD WORD

Asked if Ontario had expressed any change of view since the conferences, Hon. Mr. Dunning said, "We haven't heard any such word from Ontario."

The minister declared that he believed Premier Aberhart absolutely sincere. The present situation would not necessarily affect the Social Credit movement. If it is a good thing it will go ahead just the same," said Hon. Mr. Dunning.

NEW WORD IS COINED WHEN BILL ATTACKED

OTTAWA, April 2—Thomas L. Church, Conservative member for Toronto - Broadview, coined a new word Wednesday when he led an attack on the government's plan to establish a national employment commission.

Canada, he said, was being "statisticked to death." There was a bureau of statistics, a department of labor and other agencies which could gather all facts and figures relating to unemployment, thereby augmenting another useless commission.

"Let us stop puny-footing on this question," suggested Mr. Church. Parliament must face this issue itself, and not hand over its powers and privileges to a commission. We do not expect a single job would be created by the commission except for the commissioners and their secretaries.

BRITAIN HAS 1935 SURPLUS

LONDON, April 2.—A surplus of (2,941,000) about $14,705,000) for the financial year concluded yesterday was announced by the chancellor of the exchequer. Revenues for the year totalled £752,920,000 (about $3,764,000,000), and expenditures of £747,979,000 (about $3,740,000,000).

The estimates for the year just ended did not provide for payment to the statutory sinking fund, but as authority to borrow for these payments was of exercised and the expenditures from revenue nearly exceeded expenditure other than that for the redemption of debts), by nearly £13,500,000.

E.P. STALLION NAMED CHAMP

CALGARY, April 2.—Princeton Romeo, entered by the "E.P." ranch near Pekisko, and owned by King Edward VIII, was declared junior champion Clydesdale stallion here Wednesday at the Calgary spring horse show. Princeton Romeo also was best of two-year-old stallions.

Entries of Lawrence M. Rye of Edmonton won many awards. His Prairie Rose was judged grand champion female, others winning the reserve championship for females, classes for get of one sire, progeny of one dam, fillies, mares and foals of 1935 as well as second award for two-year-old stallions.

Derwent Sensation, owned by William Russell, Cremona, Alta., was awarded the grand championship for stallions.

Seek Agreement With Railways For Relief Men

OTTAWA, April 2—The Dominion is negotiating with the railways for an agreement covering the 10,000 relief camp men who will have jobs on maintenance work this summer.

Labor Minister Rogers told the house yesterday it will be some days before the agreement is signed, but copies will be submitted to parliament. He did not expect many of the men would be at work in April, with the work getting into full swing in May.

7,000 PICKED NEGUS TROOPS DIE IN BATTLE

Decisive Italian Victory is Reported—Invaders Lose 1,000 Men

By ANDRUE BERDING

Associated Press Foreign Staff

ROME, April 2.—A decisive Italian victory over 20,000 picked Ethiopian troops led by the Emperor himself, was reported Wednesday. An official communique said 7,000 of the Ethiopians were killed.

Italian casualities were put at more than 1,000, most of them among Eritreans, in the battle fought Tuesday in northern Ethiopia.

Marshal Pietro Badoglio, commander-in-chief of the armies in Africa, said Tuesday's battle took place in the Lake Ashangi sector, 30 miles south of the former main Italian lines at Amba Alaji.

BULL BRINGS $1,000 PRICE

CALGARY, April 2—Top price at the first day of the Calgary Spring Bull Sale was paid Wednesday by Mrs. Alice Jones of Balzac, Alta., who bought the two-year-old Hereford bull, Viking Blanchard 21st, from P. C. Bissell of Viking, Alta., for $1,000.

Grand champion Hereford bull, Wintercott Beau Baldwin 8th, owned by Hughes brothers of High River, Alta., was sold for $770 to John Wilson of Innisfail, Alta. Thomas C. Fogle of Cochrane paid $400 for the grand champion Aberdeen-Angus bull, Handsome Lad, bred by William Gibb of Olds, Killam.

During the day 262 animals were auctioned off. Seventy-nine Aberdeen-Angus bulls sold for $6,320, an average of $80 a head, while 183 Herefords sold for $29,970, an average of $163.77. At the 1935 sale Aberdeen-Angus averaged $99.10 and Herefords $168.63.

SOLONS DEBATE TRADE TREATY

OTTAWA, April 2.—United States trade treaty came before the Senate again today with expectations it would receive third reading before adjournment. Members of both sides of the upper chamber spoke on the treaty yesterday and final reading was delayed.

Increase of Canadian exports to the United States during the first six months of operation of the treaty was concrete evidence it was benefitting Canada, Senator W. A. Buchanan (Lib., Lethbridge), said. Cattle exports had increased three times as contrasted with January and February of 1935 and lambs and boards exports had doubled. Wheat exports had increased 25 per cent and alcoholic beverages had trebled.

Fire Truck Hits Auto: One Killed

VANCOUVER, April 2. — Mrs. Grace Wearing was killed late yesterday and two companions injured when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by a city fire department truck answering a fire call in South Vancouver.

Beatrice Wilson and Edward Blight, the other occupants of the car, suffered head and face lacerations and shock.

None of the firemen was injured.

N.Y. Canadian Club Members Don Beards To Take Their Soup

NEW YORK, April 2—More than 100 members of the Canadian club mumbled into their lathe whiskers last night at the annual "beaver dinner" that perhaps, after all, they ought to form a national whiskers society.

Hugh Anderson, moving spirit of the thing, was a bit awed by the generous reception given his April fool's day announcement that the club would have to take its roup whiskers off or grow them.

Everybody was to don a beard.

ACTUALLY SOCIETY

The word got around that there actually was a society of the whiskered and applications for membership poured in. Emperor Haile Selassie and George Bernard Shaw were proposed as honorary members.

Chancellor Adolf Hitler, it was agreed, would be ineligible because the adornment must be on the chin.

"You see, it was like this," Anderson explained for the 100th time. "We and Canadians and British brothers in New York think this dinner every year—a beaver dinner. The beaver is a Canadian symbol, you know. From beaver I got the idea of whiskers—the kid's game. But I didn't think anybody would take it seriously."

FLAMING CHIN DRAPE

Anderson's ruddy countenance, marking him a Newfoundlander, was heightened considerably by a chin drape the flaming color of Joe Louis' hair.

His whiskers were only surpassed in sheer beauty by those of Ignatium Silverdar—in the dinner program known as Dean Harlow—worn by Captain Bob Bartlett, the veteran explorer.

FEDERAL RELIEF GRANT SLASHED TO OLD LEVELS

Commencing April 1 the Dominion government grant to the provinces on account of unemployment relief has been reduced from $175,000 to $148,750, according to information received by Hon. Dr. W. A. Cross, minister of health and relief from Hon. Norman McLeod Rogers, minister of labor. This is a 15 per cent reduction.

As a result the whole unemployment relief burden will undergo redistribution with grants all to be reduced on a pro rata basis similar to that on which the increased grant was made four months ago.

INCREASED LAST DECEMBER

Following the Dominion-provincial relief conference in December the grant from the government was increased from $100,000 a month to $175,000, the understanding being that it would be for four months. Now, in the belief that the unemployment relief administration costs less in the summer than in the winter, the Dominion has reduced the grant to $148,750.

FEDERAL RELIEF

It is understood that the grants to cities will commence immediately, Premier William Aberhart stated on Thursday, with the new scale being set at the earliest possible date.

CITY PAYMENTS CONTINUE

It is proposed to continue the monthly lump sum payments to the cities but these will be reduced.

Under the increased schedule adopted four months ago Edmonton has been receiving $60,000 and Calgary $80,000, and both now probably will be decreased by 15 per cent.

Chess is mentioned in Hindu literature at least 3000 years before Christ. It was then called 'chaturanga."

THE TIMID DICTATOR

The official organ explains that Major Douglas was "fired," and deserved to be fired, for two reasons:

1. That he wanted to dictate to the Government, and not merely give it advice;

2. That he is a backward and retiring man who stood too much on ceremony, and waited to be "required" to come to Alberta when he should have caught the boat on his own account, got on the ground, and handed out instructions to the Ministers without waiting to be asked.

The Major must be a very remarkable man on this showing. Hitherto, it has appear to record any former would-be dictator who was patterned on the model of the pale, shrinking violet. Somehow none of the Mussolini's of the past seem to suggest the shyness of a rabbit.

Any other explanations which may occur will no doubt be offered in due course, however inconsistent they may be.

Meantime, the reason the Major was let out is entombed in the correspondence which the Premier refuses to let the public see. Assuming there was any reason, other than inability to understand what he was talking about.

AN ECONOMIC BLESSING?

Thawing snow, rains, and blocked rivers have been spreading death and destruction through the north-eastern states and the maritime provinces. More than 50 persons are dead in consequence, and property damage runs into hundreds of millions.

Congress is planning to spend from $300,000,000 to $400,000,000 to prevent a recurrence in the states affected. The Dominion and the provinces will have to spend many millions to restore public property and prevent recurrence on the Canadian side of the line.

A half billion dollars will not more than cover the cost of restoring buildings, bridges and other structures, and establishing safeguards against future floods. A gigantic waste of money, thrust upon the two countries by act of nature; as much money as it cost to maintain Canada's army in France for a whole year.

But is this a waste? Economists tell us that what has been largely, perhaps mainly, wrong with the world during the last five years or so was that not enough money was being spent and not enough men employed in the making of "capital goods." Because not much was being done in the way of building houses and bridges and railways and machinery, and public improvements, those who produced consumer goods could not find a market for the day to day necessities they produce.

Well, money will now have to be poured out in huge amounts in those devastated areas, in the construction of "capital" works—just as Europe is pouring out huge sums for the construction of forts and fighting machines and ammunition. If what this continent needed was an incentive to spend money in permanent works of a non-productive character, nature has provided the occasion and made the spending not only urgent but unavoidable.

Aside altogether from the loss of life, are we then to conclude that this carnival of destruction is an economic blessing and gain, and not an economic catastrophe and loss?

BIG SHOTS TO THE RESCUE

Ottawa sends along interesting news. The Big Shots, it seems, rushed gallantly to the rescue of Alberta's Social Credit Government. They were at the capital bright and early Wednesday, trying to persuade the Government to put through a special act of parliament to redeem the provincial bonds which Premier Aberhart had allowed to go into voluntary default.

Not because the financial head-men have been converted to Social Credit, nor because they are infatuated with our genial Premier and want to help him out of trouble. And not from any sentimental consideration for the taxpayers of Alberta. None of these things would move them to condone a violation of the "sanctity" of a money contract and give aid and comfort to the violator.

The fact is the Government of Alberta has got itself into the position of the late Sultan of Turkey. It owes so much money its creditors dare not permit a show-down. And, to make matters worse, there are several other provinces in much the same position.

If Alberta could default, and stay defaulted, and nothing serious follow, the whole doctrine of "maintain your credit at all cost" would blow up. The threat that retribution must follow any challenge thrown at the sanctity of money contracts would be dispelled. These undertakings would be reduced to the common level of other contractual undertakings, to be interpreted in the light of ability to perform, and subject to change when that ability no longer exists.

The other western provinces would promptly follow Alberta's lead. Then the "fat would be in the fire." The whole "money question" would be on the boards at once.

The bankers do not want that. Hence Alberta could not be left in default. It must be fished out of insolvency, or the issue of private control of public credit would be raised, with results not predictable but much to be apprehended. Hence the curious spectacle of the Big Shots rushing to Ottawa to get the Social Credit Government hauled out of the default into which it has obstinately floundered.

THE BOND-HOLDER

The man—and still more the woman—who has invested savings in Alberta provincial bonds is naturally doing some heavy thinking these days, in an atmosphere of wonder as to whether the money has been lost.

There is no occasion for alarm on that score, and bond-holders should not allow any impulse to panic to worry them, or cause them to sacrifice their securities. The people of Alberta are not robbers. They have not asked, and would not countenance, any course of action that would be either dishonest or unfair to those who have staked money on their good faith.

The most that has been asked or proposed in any way general enough to be important, and the most that is wanted, is that the wages paid for the use of money be reduced to parity with the wages paid for labor and the prices of commodities, that is, with the earnings of those who have to do the paying. And in asking that the taxpayers are asking to be made able to pay their debts, not to evade them.

The bond-holder, if he regards the situation frankly, must realize that he is at present "several jumps ahead of the game." He has not missed a dividend. His money has not lost a day's pay. The fall in the cost of living has doubled the value of the interest money he has been drawing, and he has drawn it steadily—is drawing it still, despite the default on capital payments.

As compared to the one who put his money into business, and to the one who has to depend upon wages for a living, the bond-holder is in an enviable position. No reduction in interest rates can take from him or her the benefit received over the last six years when interest rates stayed up while other incomes slumped. And a reduction in rates now would really strengthen the assurance that the investment is safe, that the capital money will be repaid and the bonds redeemed.

The most any bond-holder has to fear is that he may not get his capital back on the date it was promised, and to a very real extent that possibility exists because of the excessive rates which have been paid to him through the years of depression.

Fifty Years Ago

From the Files of The Edmonton Bulletin

A rumor is current in town that the offices of the Lieutenant-Governor of the North West and the Indian commissioner are to be divided. Mr. Dewdney getting another term as governor and Hon. Joseph Howard for Provencher, Manitoba, becoming commissioner.

Some weeks ago a proclamation from the Indian commissioner arrived here to the effect that no more arrests would be made in connection with the late rebellion, that the Indians would not be disarmed, that they would be amply provised with seed grain and that they need not be afraid of the flying column—an unnecessary caution.

Last spring the militia supply officer kicked against paying farmers $1.50 per bushel for oats. The public account shows that at Qu Appelle the figure paid was $2.50, while $50 per ton was the modest amount paid Leeson and Scott for 100 tons of hay, against $23 a ton at Edmonton. At Brandon oats were bought at 29 cents and hay at $11 per ton.

Under the Torrens Regulation Act recently introduced in Parliament, provision is made for only four registrars in the Territories, two for Assiniboia and one each for Alberta and Saskatchewan.

The petition against the removal of the police divisional headquarters from Edmonton received 250 signatures up to Tuesday evening. It left Ottawa on Thursday's mail, accompanied by the minutes of the meeting from which it emanated.

The Passing Show

By J. S. COWPER

I make a practice of publicly retracting any dictum made in this column which the development of events or fuller investigation proves to be unwarranted. It's good discipline as well as common honesty.

J. S. Cowper

Last Saturday this column made an observation that I'd like to retract. It stated that the government supporters in the Legislature had been nothing but "rubber stamps" during the legislative session.

I'd sat in the gallery at the Legislature every day of the session until last Friday afternoon, studying the members at work. By a curious irony, on the very afternoon I was absent from the House writing down my opinion that the Government members were nothing but "rubber stamps," a majority of them proved that they were not.

It appears that after having taxed everything in sight, and double taxed incomes, the government woke up to the fact that it had overlooked taxing dogs. The Provincial Treasurer accordingly brought in a bill to impose taxes of from $1 to $10 on all dogs in the province, in addition to the dog licenses exacted by some municipalities.

That awakened the latent spirit of independence. While I was describing them as "rubber stamps," a majority of government supporters voted down the bill to tax dogs. Presumably many of the members own dogs.

That tiny spark of independence is not much, but it relieves them of the title of "rubber stamps."

Most everybody who reads this column and who lives within reach of a moving picture theatre has seen and heard Grace Moore in that epic of filmland "One Night of Love."

Here's a way by which you can win an argument or a bet over Gracie.

When you heard those gorgeous tones thrilling the theatre, and saw Miss Moore's lips and arms moving in perfect harmony with the notes, did you think that she was singing? Of course you did. All the evidence of eyes and ears confirmed the belief. Yet the truth is that Miss Moore never sung a note in any of those scenes you saw on the film.

Investigation last week at Washington before a New Deal enquiry, into the activities of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company as "angel" for several film productions, revealed many strange facts. One is, the A. T. and T. Company had put up a lot of money for the production of "Moonlight and Pretzels," "The Emperor Jones," and "Take a Chance."

Defending its actions, counsel for the A. T. and T. Co. explained that the company had been interested in engineering sound effects for films, and hence had been willing to aid in financing their production. He disclosed that A. T. and T. Co. engineers had gone to Hollywood to assist in "One Night of Love." They made Miss Moore record her songs on wax cylinders. While the scenes were acted and the cameras turned, Miss Moore merely moved her lips and made gestures in keeping with the time of the song. Later on the experts tailored the canned music to fit the movements of the singer's lips.

Gosh! How these smart Hollywood chaps take advantage of our innocence. I'd seen "One Night of Love" four times, for its romantic and musical charm. Now I'll have to make it five to see if I detect the trickery.

Did you go to church last Sunday as Premier Aberhart urged? I did better. I stayed in and heard Mr. Aberhart on the radio and then read my Bible for myself.

An answer Mr. Aberhart made to a polite and proper question interested me most. The questioner wanted light on the two different stories of the Creation in the opening chapters of the Book of Genesis.

I have no quarrel with, and very little interest in, other people's religious beliefs. What more can one ask, if they find comfort and solace in them. But when Mr. Aberhart told this enquirer from Saskatchewan that there are no contradictions between the two stories of Creation, he was dealing with a piece of literature with which we are all more or less familiar.

To check up against any error of my memory, I read and compared them yet again. The first story starts with the first verse of Genesis: the second story starts with the fourth verse of the second chapter. There are important differences between the two stories, in regard to the order of creation.

The first account says that heaven and earth and light were created on the first day, and day and night, morning and evening instituted. On following days were created the firmament, the dry land and seas with all the grasses and fruits of the earth, followed on the fourth day by the creation of the sun and the moon and the stars. Fishes and fowls and whales were created on the fifth day, and beasts on the sixth, including mankind.

The second account is not divided by days. It starts with a waterless earth without men or vegetation. Creation came in the following order: first, a mist to water the ground, then Adam was made from dust. After Adam was created, a great garden was planted with all the fruits and trees, followed by the creation of the beasts and fowls, all of which were paraded before Adam to be named.

The theological destiny of man is so bound up with the incidents of the creation stories it disconcerts one to find in the one story that man was created before all other living creatures and in the other story that he was created after all of them.

The two stories disagree over the creation of woman. The first story says that man and woman were created together on the sixth day. The second story says that Adam was created out of dust before there were any fruits, grasses, herbs, fowls, fish or beasts, and that after all these had been created from nothingness and named by him, that Eve was created out of one of his ribs, amputated from him while he lay asleep.

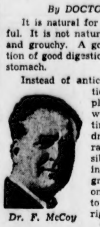

I don't accuse Mr. Aberhart of trying to hoodwink his questioner when he told him there are no differences between the two stories. I think he had never noted them. But if he never noted the contradictory stories and their vast implications, in the subject he knows best, how far is he to be regarded as a safe guide in matters of which he is confessedly dependent on the circumlocutions of Major Douglas.

Rarin' To Go

By DOCTOR FRANK McCOY

It is natural for us to be joyous and cheerful. It is not natural to wake up feeling tired and grouchy. A good disposition is an indication of good digestion; a sour disposition, a sour stomach.

Instead of anticipating the day's possibilities of activity and accomplishment as a well person would, the sick person arises tired, cross and irritable. He dreads the day's problems rather than welcomes its possibilities. Yet, that tired feeling may be changed to that grand and glorious feeling if one will but take the trouble to cultivate health and the right mental attitude.

Dr. F. McCoy

One who tires easily or becomes trembly and winded after a short walk should have a careful examination to discover what needs to be done to avert the impending disease, because listlessness and tiredness are two of nature's warning signals. The increasing enervation is the forerunner of disease, as it indicates that the patient's energy is gradually being stolen away or being dissipated, which leaves him weaker and weaker.

A pronounced tired feeling is one of the first indications of tuberculosis, diabetes, anemia and other serious diseases. Yet many times people will feel tired simply because of auto-intoxication, without any serious disease having yet developed.

Often people who are cheerless and weighted with care will find that they quickly enjoy the beauty of the sky and the song of the bird after they have used a short cleansing fast and cleansing enemas which remove the poisonous toxins which are sending fatigue poisons to the brain.

One who wishes to look at the world through rose-colored glasses must first cleanse his system of the blues of biliousness. A pure blood stream means a brain that can function naturally and gives a frame of mind which makes life worth living and attracts success to us.

Endeavor to build up your health that you will wake up in the morning ready to race over the hurdles in your path, and you will find that the road to success is not difficult but easy. Success often depends upon just such a simple measure as changing that tired feeling into a feeling of pep—of being ready and rarin' to go.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION: Mrs. Alice H. asks: "Is there a cure for lisping? What causes it?"

ANSWER: Lisping is usually curable. Sometimes this trouble is caused by an impediment of the tongue because of small cords tied to its under-surface, or other mechanical defects. These can usually be corrected by a slight surgical operation. Your doctor could no doubt tell you if the operation would be helpful in your case. If he finds no mechanical cause, then possibly you have formed the habit of lisping and could cure yourself by pronouncing more clearly the letters which now give you difficulty.

QUESTION: Mrs. Garland B. writes: "I am convalescing from poliomyelitis and would like to know if light-complexioned people are more susceptible to this disease?

ANSWER: I do not know that those of a fair complexion are more susceptible to this disease than those of darker skins.

Dr. Frank McCoy's great book, "The Fast Way to Health," gives the mechanics of health in plain, easily understandable language.

Poems That Live

WAITING

Serene, I fold my hands and wait,
Nor care for wind, or tide, or sea;
I rave no more 'gainst Time or Fate,
For, lo! my own shall come to me.

I stay my haste, I make delays,
For what avails this eager pace?
I stand amid the eternal ways,
And what is mine shall know my face.

Asleep, awake, by night or day,
The friends I seek are seeking me;
No wind can drive my bark astray,
Nor change the tide of destiny.

What matter if I stand alone?
I wait with joy the coming years;
My heart shall reap where it hath shown,
And garner up its fruits of tears.

The waters know their own and draw
The brook that springs in yonder heights;
So flows the good with equal law
Unto the soul of pure delights.

The stars come nightly to the sky;
The tidal wave comes to the sea;
Nor time, nor space, nor deep, nor High,
Can keep my own away from me.

SIDE GLANCES—By George Clark

"But the sales manager said the people would snatch these right out of our hands."

On This Date

A Day in Canadian History —o— By FRED WILLIAMS

On this date in 1873 a reporter of The Morning Chronicle, Halifax, "scooped" the world with a thrilling story of the worst shipwreck that ever took place on the Nova Scotia coast. The reporter was William Stevens Fielding, afterwards Premier of Nova Scotia and the Minister of Finance under Sir Wilfrid Laurier who twenty-five years ago negotiated the reciprocity agreement with President Taft.

The wrecked ship was the Atlantic of the White Star line. She had had a rough passage from Liverpool and her supply of coal ran low. Captain Williams decided to make for Halifax for fuel. They set their course, but somebody blundered and about 2 a.m. on April 1 the ship struck on Marr's Rock, 22 miles from Halifax. The crash was so sudden that it was impossible to do much, for the vessel suddenly careened over and many were thrown into the water. Over 750 of the 1,000 on board were drowned. Every woman and child perished, save one six year old boy, and those who managed to get ashore by means of a life line were all badly battered and half frozen.

When the rumor of the disaster first reached Halifax it was regarded as an April fool joke, but Fielding did not so regard it. He started off for the scene of the wreck, but on the way run into the third officer who had walked to Halifax in search of aid for the survivors. Fielding took him into an eating house and bought him a meal, the while jotting down the officer's story, which, secured, he rushed to The Chronicle office and started writing his story. Late that night he sent long stories of the disaster to newly blundered and about 2 a.m. on April 1 the ship struck on Marr's Rock, 22 miles from Halifax. The crash was so sudden that it was impossible to do much, for the vessel suddenly careened over and many were thrown into the water. Over 750 of the 1,000 on board were drowned. Every woman and child perished, save Mr. Fielding about that story, he resolutely declared that he had a duty to his paper and he did it, rather than running off to the wreck with those who dashed there with vehicles and clothing and food for the survivors.

WANTS CHANGE

Editor Bulletin: Has not the time come for the Edmonton taxpayer to become righteously indignant and kick all superfluous employees connected with the Edmonton School Board out of office?

At the present time our Edmonton School Board is infested with a number of theorists and psychological faddists, who, under the guise of benevolent investigators of the child mind are drawing fat salaries at the expense of the already over-burdened citizen.

When we are free of these intellectual quacks we can then devote our whole time to forming a less expensive educational course which will require thinking on the part of the student instead of on unhealthily and abnormally developed memory.

WORKS PROGRAM

Editor Bulletin: The solution of a multitude of serious and baffling questions confronting the Canadian people today hinges very generally upon the matter of inflation. The element likely to be adversely affected by the inflation represent less than 10% of the population with none likely to suffer actual hardship.

A public works program, embracing social services instituted by the Federal government and financed by treasury notes coupled with larger taxation of higher incomes would dispose entirely of the whole absurd problem of relief.

Greater activity within the country engendered by this program would result in greater production for export, and surpluses thus created, together with an increased gold production, would more readily enable us to liquidate external obligations.

The standard of living acquired by a people is reflected by the intelligence and industry of the people.

A work and wages program instituted by the senior authority would if broad enough react throughout the economic fabric of the nation and automatically establish a standard of living commensurate with the modern age and restore manhood and womanhood to those whose morale is affected by unemployment.

The 10% adversely affected but not actually hurt are all that stand in the way of a regenerated Canada.

A work program would offer, at a reasonable wage, employment to every applicant, and in the course of a short time establish interest-

QUITE DIFFERENT

In connection with such a matter as the payment of $25 (or maybe $75) per month in Social Credit dividends, the farmer crossed his fingers, said he would take a sporting chance and away he and the wife went to the polls to vote for a pious hope. But when you come down to practical matters, like school affairs, then you have his tender spot. There is nothing pious about that at all. He knows, or thinks he knows, which is the same thing.—Vegreville Observer.

HUNGER HURTS BUSINESS

Mr. Colin F. Campbell, chairman National Provincial Bank, England:

"It has been suggested that in trying to stave off ruin from farmers, governments have tended too much to regard the problem as one of reducing supply to fit the lower level of demand. If it were approached from another angle and increased consumption were aimed at, this might be a more satisfactory way of applying funds now devoted to subsidies to producers or to export bounties. The government has already made a start through the provision of cheap milk, and it is stated that methods of extending such schemes to other sections of the population are being considered.

"It has been estimated that if the under-nourished classes in this country were able to enjoy a full diet, there would be an increased trade in foodstuffs amounting to about £200,000,000 a year, giving revived activity to British farming without harming overseas trade or employment. Such estimates, of course, must be received with caution and the question of the cost of such proposals cannot be ignored. But it has long been recognized that the restoration of purchasing power in all countries, and especially in our own, is of the highest importance to industry as a means of securing a better outlet for manufactures."

India Will be Christian or Moslem Under The India Act

By R. T. ELLIOTT, K.C.

Everybody was wrong in estimating the effect of the India Act. No one, either great or small made any prediction which has materialized in any degree. Even Mr. Ghandi was absolutely wrong when he argued that the Act did not make sufficient provision for the Untouchables; a class for whose welfare and uplift Mr. Ghandi carried on a vigorous campaign. Mr. Ghandi feared that under the India Act the Untouchables would continue as an oppressed class.

None of the British statesmen and none of the Indian Princes had the slightest idea of what the India Act would do. All the great speeches, the important debates, and the wise predictions have turned out to be empty sound.

The only man who figured out what was coming was Max Muller; and about 1880 he wrote: "Hinduism is a decrepit religion, and has not many years to live."

Max Muller arrived at a right conclusion; but he had no idea Hinduism would be wafted out by an Act of the Parliament of Great Britain, passed for other purposes.

In order to make the real position understandable, a very few definitions are necessary, and these only in terms of wide generality. A Hindu is an Aryan native of that part of the Indian Peninsula known as Hindustan, lying east of the River Indus and south of the Himalayas. The name Hindu is applied to those who adhere to the old religion of that country; as distinguished from those who adopted the Moslem faith and the Koran and are called Moslems.

The Hindus were divided into four castes:

1. Brahmans or Priestly.
2. Ksatriyas or Military.
3. Vaisyas or Merchants.
4. Sudras or Artisans and Laborers.

In the course of time these castes became subdivided into classes within themselves—but for the purpose of indicating the effect of the India Act only the four main castes need be considered; together with about eighty-five million Moslems and about seventy million Untouchables for whom there was no caste entrance.

While the India Act was being considered the Moslems and the Untouchables apparently only used language for the purpose of concealing thought; because immediately the Act was signed by the King at London the scene was changed.

The leaders of the Untouchables announced that here was the time and chance to free all their people from the age-old slavery and oppression of Hinduism. The most impressive of these leaders, Dr. Ranji Ambedkar, born an Untouchable, and now holding degrees from London University, England, and Columbia University, New York, tells the Untouchables that the route to freedom is via new religious connections; and he is touring India telling his followers to get a new religious home now—whether it be Christian or Moslem—so long as they get out of Hinduism. By the thousands the Untouchables are accepting this teaching, and the mass movement of the Untouchables from Hinduism is an actual fact.

The Moslems have never made the conversion of the Untouchables or the Sudras an active policy, but the passing of the India Act has changed all that.

Under the India Act place is given to majority and minority, on the principle that the majority rule and the minority be given protection. This was on the universal belief that those of the Hindu religion would be the majority.

But once the Moslems could absorb the Untouchables and the Sudras into Islam, then the Moslems would be the majority. The Untouchables are definitely going somewhere, and the Sudras are afflicted with moneylenders, and with exactions on the part of the Brahmans, and with the cruel limitations of caste, and are in a frame of mind for a religious elopement.

The Moslems have financed and commenced a nation-wide campaign to get the Untouchables and the Sudras into Islam. The Aga Khan, the commanding prince of the church to one of the branches of Islam, went from London to India, and there is little doubt his powerful influence will make the Moslem campaign one of real efficiency. The Moslems have no prejudices against mass conversions, and will take as many millions into their mosques as can be induced to come in. Once an individual becomes a member of a mosque he is on a basis of equality with every other Moslem, and, up to the extent of his own efforts and capabilities, has equal opportunity.

From the Christian standpoint the situation has difficulties. The missionaries are trained in the belief that there is no such thing as mass conversion to Christianity; there must be a change in each individual heart. Seventy million hearts would take a long time to reach individually, and double that number would take longer. There would have to be a great army of teachers; and a well filled bank account to pay salaries and expenses.

The Untouchables and the Sudras prefer the Christian gateway out of Hinduism, because they value medical help and hospital treatment very highly, and because they have a high regard for courts, and financial institutions, established by the British.

Surely there must be a middle course open, whereunder the Christian religion may be adopted as the racial religion of the Untouchables and the Sudras—so that their votes may be classified as Christian votes, and their children educated in the Christian faith to the full extent to which facilities can be provided and extended. Although the Untouchables are classified as Christian countries there may be Britons, as well adults as children, who could not pass a strict examination on Christian doctrine. There would seem to be no reason to enforce as against the Untouchables and the Sudras a strict standard not enforced against other classes in the Empire.

One of the great national truths now confronting the world is that India will very soon—as a few years only correspond to minutes in the life of the world—be ruled either by a Moslem majority or a Christian majority. The Moslems are fully financed and wiling to accept mass conversion. The Christian church will either work out an efficient compromise or join the Brahmans in the minority class. The Hindu religion is on the way out. The India Act did it.

BURNING QUESTION FOR BAGPIPE PLAYER IS TO SKIRL OR NOT TO SKIRL

By THOMAS T. CHAMPION
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, April 2. — With Frederick Annalie Eskdale Allan of Greasby, Cheshire, the burning question these days is to skirl or not to skirl.

Allan is a piper who practices at his home so persistently as to seriously annoy the neighbors. They finally summoned him before a magistrate, who twice adjourned the case in the hope that the player of laments could arrive at some agreement with his lamenting neighbors.

The complainants suggested that Allan could play in the box-room, but the piper said it would be cold there in the winter.

On his third appearance before the bench, however, the defendant offered to confine his playing to a half-hour daily except Wednesdays, Thursdays and Sundays, "when he would be playing elsewhere to people who paid to hear him."

The case was adjourned again while the magistrate pondered anew the problem raised by the sound of the bagpipes.

FRENCH SPY SPOILS SEIZED

METZ, France, April 2—Sixty thousand francs which Germany is accused of paying to a French spy were confiscated by authorities Wednesday after Charles Gridlig, former aerial defence officer, was convicted and sentenced to prison. Gridlig's wife, alleged to have been an accomplice, was acquitted.

MISSISSIPPI ON RAMPAGE

CARUTHERSVILLE, Mo., April 2.—One man was drowned and the levee homes of nearly 1,000 persons were threatened Wednesday by rising waters of the Mississippi river.

Bud Elkins, 35, was drowned when he attempted to wade across an inundated road and stepped into a pit.

Observers said many families living on levees on both the Tennessee and Missouri sides of the river probably would have to abandon their homes as water was seeping under dikes.

Binder Twine Not To Be Included In Agricultural Bill

Despite strong representations by William Tomyn, S.C., Whitford, that binder twine be included in provisions for farm necessities enumerated in a bill to assist agriculturists, members of the legislature on Wednesday voted against such inclusion.

The bill, entitled, "An Act respecting the Security for Advances made in the Year 1936 by mortgagors and others" be acquitted of seed grain, fodder, fuel oil and lubricating oil," sets forth the terms on which such advances can be obtained.

Hon. W. N. Chant, minister of agriculture, said that there had been no cases of shortage of binder twine and if there was any such shortage next fall, it would be taken care of.

A process has been developed that causes lubricants to adhere to metal surfaces when they are warm when subjected to heavy pressure or scraping, wiping or washing action.

HOW THEY VOTED

Editor Bulletin: As a subscriber of your newspaper I wish to take this opportunity of correcting misapprehensions existing in the public mind, particularly with reference to the amendment which would have prohibited sale of bottled beer for consumption off licensed premises, in the bill to amend the Government Liquor Control act. Most people believed that the matter was disposed of in the government caucus with the Social Credit forces firmly entrenched against the alteration. The facts do not bear out this conclusion.

Naturally government bills and amendments are supported by the largest party group in the legislature. Mr. Aberhart as premier and Mr. Manning are always present when the House is formally sitting and in committee of the whole assembly with the exception of recess periods. I doubt if Mr. Aberhart, regardless of his personal opinions, could vote against the government. It is his duty as premier to support his gubernatorial group.

An analysis of the liquor alteration vote brings out the direct results, namely, Mr. Aberhart, Mr. Manning, and Mr. Hugill (the latter piloted the amending bill through the House), who were the only executive ministers in the chamber at that particular time, accompanied by the opposition (with the exception of L. A. Giroux who did not vote), and government representatives totalling thirty-seven voted against the amendment. Fourteen Social Credit members showed their approval of it.

NATIONAL CURRENCY

Editor Bulletin: I shall esteem it a favor if you can spare me a little space in your valuable paper in which to set forth some interesting details of The Great Canadian Plan for the improvement of Canada and the benefit and prosperity of all Canadians from coast to coast.

Public Works Division:

Paving broad highways, 40 feet wide, across Canada from coast to coast.

Building fireproof, concrete elevators across Canada from coast to coast.

Building bridges over railroads in all parts of Canada to eliminate level crossings.

Industrial Division:

The Canadian government to buy all wheat from the Canadian farmers on the basis of one dollar per bushel for No. 1 Northern at their local elevators. The government would store the wheat in the fireproof elevators for three seasons.

Land Division:

The Canadian government to fix up 500,000 ready-made 40-acre farms, with houses, barns, and outbuildings complete, on the choicest land in Canada, flanking the broad highways, from coast to coast. These farms would be the property of the government and would be rented at a nominal rental to bona-fide, law-abiding citizens.

Pensions Division:

The Canadian government would pay $100 per month to every man over 60 years of age, and to every woman over 50 years of age. The only condition would be that those wishing to receive this pension should have resided in Canada for at least ten years.

Hospitals Division:

The Canadian government would build hospitals, wherever needed, across Canada, from coast to coast. These hospitals would be free and would be equipped with the most modern apparatus and the most up-to-date medicines, etc. and would be staffed with doctors and nurses of qualified ability. No one wishes to go to a hospital unless they are obliged to; therefore it is imperative that every patient should have first-class medical attention which cannot be obtained in a private home. The health of the people is an important matter for the government to consider.

Electric Light Division:

All the broad highways across Canada from coast to coast would be electric lighted so that night travel would be as safe as travelling in the daytime. Underground cables would be laid for this purpose. Steel standards would be erected at intervals with wires strung across the highway, from which lamps would be suspended in the centre.

Welfare Division:

Homes for the blind, the orphans, and the aged would be built by the government at suitable places from coast to coast, staffed by qualified attendants. These unfortunate people must be taken care of if we are to call this glorious Canada of our a Christian country.

Not one red cent for all this work would come out of the taxpayers' pockets.

This money has nothing whatever to do with foreign exchange and would circulate in Canada only.

When will the people of Canada wake up to the splendid future that lies before them?

We have the men and the material for all this work which can be started as soon as the Great Canadian Plan is put into operation.

If the Great Canadian Plan was put into operation there would be an end to this racket about shortage of money, borrowing money, and high rates of interest to pay for money, because everyone would be working full time at standard rate of wages.

There is work for everyone for the next ten years at standard rate of wages. When we have done all this work it will be time enough to take stock of ourselves and count up the hundreds of millions of dollars that have been brought into Canada by the tourist trade alone. "Let's hop to it."

VINER INCONSISTENT

Editor Bulletin: What hope is there for a brave new world with such men as Dr. Jacob Viner, professor of political economy?

"The theory of the capitalistic system in a state of free competition is sound," says Dr. Viner, in Thursday's Bulletin. Yes, in an age of scarcity, but not in an age of plenty. I suggest that as the first step in his new education he read "Looking Backward," by Edward Bellamy, written in 1887. The sad part is that thousands of Chicago University students are going to be as far behind the times as Dr. Viner appears to be.

I trust that all sensible people will see the contradictions and inconsistencies in his thought. He advocates retrogression, a return to simpler conditions, a Rousseauan return to nature, so do certain poets and artists in the American south west. But take away from them their telephone, radios, typewriters, motor cars and bathtubs, and listen to them howl. We must go onward and upward. Retrogression means stagnation and death.

Again he prefers the disorders of democracy to the regulated efficiency of the regimented state. What he fears is that we will become automatons in a mechanized society, that we will lose freedom, initiative, and individualism. Just how much initiative, individualism, or freedom can we have today? Most of us can't even find jobs, let alone choose our line of work. Sensible people would say: "There is a certain amount of work to be done in the production and distribution of goods and services; the quota efficiently and scientifically we do it, the more freedom, initiative, and individualism we can have, for what is freedom, or initiative, or individualism, but the using of one's leisure time as one sees fit?"

In admitting that the success of capitalism depends upon intelligent selfishness, Dr. Viner admits that life under capitalism is a survival of the fittest. Need life be that in an age of plenty?

The trouble with the present system is that it is like a great unwieldy, top-heavy building, without initial design or plan with wings, corridors and stories added haphazardly from generation to generation, and the trouble with Dr. Viner and other advocates of capitalism is that they have lost themselves in the wings, corridors and upper stories of that building. Clearer sighted men like Stuart Chase, Thorstein Veblen, Howard Scott, Harold Loeb and others have found their way through the maze to the outside where they stand in the open and look upon the building and see that it is built upon sand.

How soon will this ill-constructed structure capitalism, collapse upon the sand of production versus profit? How soon will it be before a system of planned economy can be built upon the solid ground work of production for use?

Not long, we hope, despite the pessimistic utterances of Dr. Jacob Viner.

April Fool Dance Is Gay Affair

FIRST bars of a waltz were played, lights were dimmed and guests at the Edmonton Curling club dance in the Riverview pavilion on Wednesday evening, began to circle slowly and gracefully about the floor, only to hear someone exclaim "April Fool!" as the music changed to a foxtrot. Such was the spirit of one of the gayest parties arranged on the first day of April. Lucky spot dances were a novelty feature and Mrs. Ralph Bellamy distributed the various prizes. Much unwrapping of layer after layer of tissue paper only to find a gum drop, bunny or chicken, provided a great deal of amusement.

Mr. Bruce Hamilton assisted Mrs. Bellamy with arrangements for the party and Mr. Charles Cairns was master of ceremonies. Mr. Jack Hays, president, received the guests who numbered over 150. Among those present were: Miss Nellie Smith, Miss Edythe Gange, Miss Eaisanore Lalande, Mrs. C. W. Boon, Mary Hughes, Kay Hanson, D. Burney, E. Gorton, Miss Daisy Potts, Miss Elizabeth Box, Miss Edith George, Miss Muttart.

League For Health Has Exhibition

HEALTH and Strength . . . and they are certainly in earnest about it, this group of girls in Edmonton who formed a League last fall and have steadily recruited to their numbers, business girls and women who seek a key to a new vitality. Perhaps some of us would think that figure had more to do with it than mere constitution, but certainly it doesn't seem to take long to be infected by the "health plague" by so many glowing, enthusiastic League members spreading this new kind of epidemic.

It was tea time, and the Health and Strength League entertained at the home of their president, Mrs. George Hogg, in the west end on Wednesday with a demonstration of gymnastic exercises, guaranteed to make you into a new woman. Some of the guests were late for the demonstration, and one of the members, disappointed that these few had missed witnessing a definite display of morning physical ritual, disappeared momentarily, donned uniform and socks, and in a moment was performing on the drawing room carpet . . . while others stood by and counted! There isn't one little muscle neglected, either, for apparently one little muscle allowed to sleep late, every day, can throw the whole machine out of order. Even the toes came in for their share.

VITAMINES! A TO Z

Before tea, the guests were ushered to a table, attractively set for a meal, with salads prepared, meat, eggs, milk and fruit, vegetables and whole grains to complete what is called a sufficiently nourishing daily diet.

According to their authority one should have one pint of milk (children must have a quart) every day, one egg, one serving of meat, a salad of fresh fruits, including citrus fruits, a salad of raw vegetables, a serving of leafy vegetables meaning your spinach whole grain cereal and butter. They even offer recipes for the daily menu, found to ensure that perfect glowing health.

Mrs. Hogg and Miss Sally McLeod welcomed the guests, and on Thursday, Friday and Saturday afternoons the tea and gymnasium will be repeated, with special exhibits arranged for each evening, by request. Miss Helen Barke gave the demonstration on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. E. Heavener had charge of tea arrangements while assisting were Mrs. D. Taulor, Mrs. C. Horncastle, Miss Helen Johnston and Miss Edyth Dingman. They will also assist at the affairs planned for the remainder of the week, to which the public is invited.

Their ideals are high flung—to banish sickness and disease, by a promising health education through the schools and each community. They are sure they know what is good for you.

GIRL TRAVELLER HERDED SHEEP IN AUSTRALIA

Whether it is a tea party, a formal reception, or the new experience of herding sheep on an Australian ranch, Miss Grace Pattullo received every minute of fun and enjoyment on a trip to Antipodes. Certainly by much of her enthusiasm and pleasure in telling her fascinating In the As Much Club of Eastwood United Church who heard her lecture on "From Perth, Through Port Arthur to Prosperine" on Wednesday evening.

FORT TO INTERIOR

Curios characteristic of the country from far western Perth to Port Arthur, most southerly point in Australia and of Prosperine, centre of the sugar cane industry of Queensland, Miss Pattullo had brought with her. Ships and trunks, plants, the head of an emu from Western Australia and even pickled turtle eggs completed the collection.

Culmination of her whole 1,200-mile journey Miss Pattullo said was a spent month on the Great Barrier Reef, Delicately colored and shaped coral were most delightful souvenirs.

Miss Pattullo spoke particularly of the generous hospitality of the Australian people and in concluding her lecture, conveyed their message of good will to Canadians.

Engagements

PLAMONDON, April 2—Of interest is the announcement made today of the engagement of Jeanne, daughter of Mr. J. A. Piquette and the late Mrs. Piquette and Mr. Emilien Houle, B.A., B.S.A., of St. Culbert's, Berthier, Quebec. The wedding is arranged to take place this summer.

Patently Stylish

the social round . . . .

ON GOOD authority comes the word that His Excellency the Governor-General expects to be present during part of the Alpine camp at Sunwapta this summer. "Imagine spinning a yarn about the campfire with someone with the story-faculty and sportsmanship of His Excellency," someone commented enthusiastically. Lord Tweedsmuir, among his many accomplishments, is supposed to be an ardent mountain climber, and looks forward to scaling and conquering the snow-crowned heights of the Canadian Rockies. "It was apparently his own idea, too," the mountain climber confided. From all over the world mountaineers congregate in the great Rockies of Canada—"there were 148 'under canvas' before registration had 'well begun, a year ago," one of the club members remarked. Amid the majesty of the everlasting heights surely is found a new greatness of heart and soul. It will be a great honor if the Governor-General of Canada is present.

ATLANTIC NOCTURNE

When the grey of the sky creeps
Out at the east
And the salt of the sea smells cold;
And away in the west the evening star has died

With a last brief gift of gold.
Then the rolling lonshore hills stretch out

In an arabesque of blue,
And the soft friendly glow of candle-light

In the cottages call to you.
To come and dream—to forget the day
And its cares—and the murm'ring tide
Will take you adventuring down the world

In your chair by the fireside.
Or bring to you with its mist of night
The mood for quiet thought.
Or sing to you with its low soft voice
A tune which you'd almost forget.

For there is a verse, or a melody,
Or a threshold for everyone
In the nocturne the old Atlantic sings
To the shore when the day is done.

BEULAH HOME APPEALS FOR "HELPING HAND"

Untangling the knotted threads of life's pattern for many young girls and women, Beulah Home has ministered to the spiritual and physical needs of hundreds of young mothers and their babies, this year. Altogether there is a total membership of 284 in this "home family."

Statistics reveal in the annual report of Mrs. Mary A. Finlay, matron, that the great majority of young women to whom hospitality was offered obtained positions or returned to their homes, and children were for the most part adopted or planned for by their mothers.

Burden of this work which has been the heaviest in the history of the institution, was distributed on many willing shoulders. The staff co-operated in every way possible, even assisting in caring for a large vegetable and fruit garden which eked out supplies.

Doctors have given freely of their services, and the inspiration and advice of city clergymen and missionaries has been appreciated. Dorcas women have contributed regularly to the babies' wardrobe, and at Christmas time a generous cheque was used in purchase of hampers which brought cheer to 35 mothers and 46 children. People in country points donated table supplies, clothing and bedding to the cause. Support of the Friendless Aid and the Y.W.C.A. has been invaluable. Through the efforts of Bethany Lodge and other friends a position has been found for each girl, as she is ready for work. Teas and sales of home cooking and needlework have made possible the acquirement of a sewing machine and other necessary furnishings.

Helpful influence of the home however, extends far beyond its walls guiding the feet of the diversified paths chosen in their later lives.

Understaffed as they are, members of the home board are dependent upon the support of citizens in execution of this follow-up work in meeting the rapidly rising need for assistance.

Thus it is at Easter again, when hearts are generous, and the Old Story makes one remember how fortunate, the Beulah Home appeals for aid in one of the finest of Social Service works within these city boundaries.

MISSIONARY OF 79 YEARS WILL RETURN TO JAPAN

CHATHAM, Ont., April 2.—Miss Margaret Young, prominent worker for the Anglican Church in Glencoe despite the fact she is looking forward with keen anticipation to her return to Japan in the near future to resume missionary work from which she retired on furlough 14 years after 25 years of service. She will sail from Vancouver for the Orient in a few weeks.

Accompanying her will be John Masuko Shimizu, whom she brought to Canada as a boy of 12 to be educated when she gave up her work in Nagaya in mid-Japan. Now a man of 26, her protege whom she calls Masa Chan, has all the advantages of a secondary education and is a musician of exceptional talent with the degree of T.C.M. conferred upon him by the Toronto Conservatory of Music.

He has graduated at the Glencoe High school, and also the Jarvis Street High school in Toronto, where he completed what he has termed most of his studies to music, which he intends to teach on his return. He left Japan some years ago, and his mother is now the wife of a retired Japanese army general.

Miss Young, in an interview, said she was looking forward to returning to her work. Born at Port Burwell, she taught school in Ontario before she left for Japan at the age of 39. For 26 years she was a teacher, and pioneered in the work of kindergartens at Nagaya.

REGINA, April 2.—Their work completed after eight weeks of deliberation the second session of the eighth Saskatchewan legislature was prorogued shortly before midnight last night by Lieutenant-Governor H. E. Munroe. A total of 123 bills was given royal assent.

Wife Does Not Have To Become Vampire

Not long ago I made the assertion in this column that the sirens who break up so many homes possessed no knowledge of how to charm men that every woman does not know. Furthermore, I opined that if wives would only take the trouble to practice the arts and allurements upon their husbands after marriage that they did before marriage they would not be confronted so often with the problem of the Other Woman, nor called upon to shed so many tears.

Dorothy Dix

Commenting upon this statement a correspondent says: "What you say about holding a husband is quite true. There isn't a woman in the world so dull that she doesn't know the come-on is the key game and how to please a man. Especially does every wife know how to work her husband. She knows his every foible and weakness, and can play upon them as upon a harp with a thousand strings. She knows that in order to keep her husband sailing out of her home she must have angels feed in it. She knows that she must be easy on the eyes; that she must be a gay and amusing companion; that she must be a good cook.

"It isn't that we wives don't know how to please our husbands. It is just that we get tired. We get worn out. We can't keep it up."

Of course, you can't keep it up. No wife could perpetually be fascinating, nor could any husband stand one who is always coquetting with him. She would get on his nerves, and he would wish she would stay put and take marriage as it is instead of play-acting about it. Nor would any man in his senses expect his wife to look as if she had just walked out of a beauty shop when she had been up all night with a sick baby and was cooking breakfast. Neither are many men so unreasonably vain that they would like their wives to work like coal-heavers feeding them on flattery.

Just because most husbands and wives spend their evenings discussing baby formulas and the price of groceries and how to meet a note in the bank is no sign that they are any less alluring to each other or that their conversation is less interesting than if it was when they put in the time probing into the state of their hearts.

And wives might keep up the habit of treating their husbands with politeness and consideration, of consulting their tastes and pleasures and above all, of showing them appreciation and gratitude. This may be burdensome at the time, but it saves a lot of grief in the end, and it certainly does freeze the Other Woman out.

A BEDTIME STORY

Story by HAL. COCHRANE Pictures by GEORGE SCARBO

The old prospector said, "Well, tote it I think that we've had a lot of jolts and jots of fun being together. I've been lonesome, in the past.

"No real friends have I ever found, whom I'd be glad to take around. For many days to come I hope this new friendship will last."

"Of course it will," said Scouty. "Gee, we're just as thrilled as we "Now, let's get started. All of you can ride with me in my canoe. It's right down on the river, which is very close to here."

"We'll follow you," one Tiny roared, "and soon we all can hop aboard. I love the thought of riding in a boat this time of year."

They hiked for just a little while, and then we see Dotty, with a smile, exclaimed, "Our trip is over. Your canoe is just ahead." And then the bunch rushed up to it and Windy said, "In it we'll fit. I hope it won't tip over, 'cause a ducking, now, I'd dread."

"I'll do the paddling," Coppy cried. "Come on, you Tinies, hop inside." It didn't take them very long. The old man hopped in, too.

He said, "All right, now, paddle son. We're off to have a lot of fun. When you get tired, just say so, and the rest can relieve you."

Care Should Be Taken When Drying Your Hair

By GLADYS GLAD

Toward the close of the nineteenth century, when the height of daring for a girl consisted of exposing a well-turned ankle, long hair was considered one of the most potent of beauty charms. And in that era, the Seven Sutherland Sisters were the envy of all women, for these girls possessed hair that was not only long enough to touch the ground, but was also of amazing thickness. Personally, I can't quite imagine shampooing and drying hair of such length and thickness.

In this day and age girls do not possess such long, thick tresses that hours and hours are required to dry them naturally. And yet I almost wish they did. For hair should always be permitted to dry naturally. Artificial dryers may be mighty handy gadgets, but they aren't exactly the best things in the world for the health of the hair.

Blasts of hot air dry the scalp, and call heavily upon the store of natural oil. And if your scalp does not excrete sufficient oil to supply the normal quantity to your hair, a few hot air dryings may cause the appearance of dry, scaly dandruff on your scalp. Even if you have an excessively oil scalp, the hot air current can still produce dandruff for blasts of hot air aren't going to make oil glands function more normally.

WASHING CURLY HAIR

As I said before, hair should always be permitted to dry naturally, if possible. And this is so simple when the hair is naturally curly. After curly hair has been shampooed and thoroughly rinsed, all moisture should be removed with warm towels, and the hair should then be tossed about with the hands until almost dry. Then, while still a bit damp, it should be combed and the natural waves persuaded.

When the hair requires careful setting and the use of a waving lotion, of course, it is a bit more difficult to let it dry naturally. In this case, as above, all excess moisture should be removed with warm towels and the hair tossed about a bit with the hands. Then the waving lotion should be applied and the waves set. When the hair is completely waved, all moisture should be removed by pressing the ridges of the waves between the fingers with a dry linen towel. And then the hair should be permitted to dry naturally.

ways made you want to laugh. "I really didn't mean to," he said. "Is she an acquaintance of yours?"

"I'll say she is. Toby Ryan, her name is. Skinny little thing, about as big as a minute. Maybe you've heard of her?"

"Never." Toby was emphatic. "But if I ever do see her, I'll remember she's a friend of yours."

"That's right. Give her a break. She deserves it. And, by the way, how about going one more? I haven't seen you in a coon's age. You don't think it's about time we went down to the old swimmin' where they have the corned beef and cabbage? If you're looking for something fancier, I might even be able to manage that. Not too fancy, of course."

Toby's voice was regretful. "I'd like to Bill—but I'm afraid I can't both!"

"Some other boy friend ahead of me, huh? You're certainly getting to be a popular little girl."

"I really do want to see you, Bill. Call me again, won't you?"

"Well, from where I'm standing, it looks very much as though I would. And I hope I have better luck. So long, Toby."

"So long, Bill."

She put down the telephone. Harriet, busily manicuring her nails, looked up. "Was that the Bill you introduced me to the other day, the one we met on the street that day?"

"Yes, Bill Brandt."

"Hm. Nice sort of fellow, I thought. If it wasn't for Clyde I might try to give you a little competition."

"Hm." There may have been an answer on the tip of Harriet's tongue, but if there was, she kept it to herself.

Clyde Sabin telephoned later and then arrived at the apartment. He wasn't at all the sort of person Toby had expected him to be. In the first place, he was older—well into the 30's, anyway. Toby's 19 that seemed middle-age to Harriet was 32.

Sabin was tall and broad-shouldered and very well tailored. Not at all handsome, but rather nice-looking. And certainly pleasant to be pleasant. Toby thought perhaps he tried a little too hard. Maybe that was the reason she didn't like him at ease with him. She couldn't think of any other reason.

Sabin repeated Harriet's invitation for Toby to join them for the evening. "Let me see, it's Wednesday, isn't it? Garside," he said. "I know he'd be glad to come along. Tom's a nice fellow, don't you think so?"

But Toby made it plain that she preferred to stay in, and when the others saw she meant it they gave their urging.

They left finally and Toby went to the window and looked out. Dusk had settled over the street, in half an hour it would be dark. Already Manhattan's electrical splendor was in evidence, though Toby could not see it. Nearby buildings, bleak, unlighted, closed their windows against the night. Across the street, in the apartment directly opposite, a man sat in his shirt sleeves, reading a newspaper. Toby could see the top of his head, the paper he held in front of him.

Your Children

Our dear little Jerome and someone's just-as-nice Archibald, all

slicked and pinkly perfect as Raphael's angels, get together after their naps and bathe, out on the sidewalk.

Our Jerome had been so sweet. He raised his big blue eyes to ours, not an hour ago, and said, "I like you, mummy. Do you like me today? I like everybody." We squeezed him hard and made a mental note to save that up for dad. Was there ever such a sweet, serious precious, child? So old beyond his years and even uttering epigrams that astound the family. Actually he is too perfect. Something tugs inside us. Can such a perfect child live long? Oh, dear father, watch over our little Jerome. Let not the wolves get him; he is so trusting and tender.

Then out goes Jerome and up comes Archibald, still damp from his own mama's kisses and hair tonic.

CHALLENGE ACCEPTED

Says Jerome: "I'm bigger 'n you." Retorts Archibald: "You are not. You're a sissy."

"Go on home."

"I won't. I'll stand right on this place and you can't move me."

Jerome's toe is swift. Archy's shin is tender. He strikes out and Jerome's nose stops the two-and-a-half-inch flat.

They clinch and roll in the mud. Down at the corner Tony has taken his stand. He turns a handle of his barrel organ, and suddenly the pride of his heart, the only new piece he has bought in years, booms out: "Da, da, da; dah; da-de-dah; a few waves and an oomp."

Two small figures race. They hang around Tony and crane their necks to see the parrot.

"I know what piece," boasts Archibald.

"So do I," says Jerome. "We have it on our radio."

"Ain't it fun-ny?"

They both laugh. After a while Tony trundles on down.

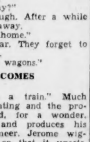

"I'll beat you home."

They both tear. They forget to notice who wins.

"Let's get our wagons."

Can you suggest some way in which I can add a note of color and give a modern touch to my bedroom. It seems so commonplace with just the regular suite of bedroom furniture. I can't afford to spend very much money, so please keep this in mind when suggesting any changes. MRS. A. S. J.

Answer—There is nothing like a colorful flounced dressing table to add that modern touch to a bedroom. Chintz or sateen would be very effective. If you don't happen to have a dressing table, then start with an old table, a chair or bench which can be painted a contrasting color and a mirror which can be pressed into new service by redecorating its old frame. Measure around the top of the table and allow about one and three-quarter times this amount for fullness. The skirt should just escape touching the floor and should hang in soft ripply fullness. First cover the top by tacking the material tightly along the edge then tack the skirt to the edge. A piece of glass cut to size will keep the top fresh and clean.

Greens May Be Used Raw As In A Salad

By MARY E. DAGUE

In any city market at this minute you can find at least a dozen piles of vivid greens, each one rich in iron, sulphur, phosphorous and that important vitamin A that bodies need to grow on. They have other virtues, too, these emerald piles, for they provide roughage and are cheap just now.

Tender, fine-textured and delicately flavored greens like spinach and sorrel should be cooked without extra water. The drops that cling to the leaves after washing will give sufficient moisture. The coarser leafy greens, like dandelions, kale, chicory and escarole need a small amount of water which should be boiling when the greens are added.

GREENS ARE GOOD RAW

Many greens may be used raw as a salad. Or they may be molded and chilled after cooking and served with a piquant dressing.

Chicory and escarole are more succulent if they are cooked when they are young and a bright green color. When fully mature, the leaves become yellowish and are better eaten raw with any good salad dressing.

A very simple way to cook beet greens is with bacon by adding a thick slice of lemon—rind and all. This gives the greens an excellent flavor without the bother of making a hot sauce. By the way, you can have many a fine mess of greens from thinning the rows of beets in your garden this spring.

BEET GREENS WITH LEMONS

Two pounds beet greens, 4 tablespoons bacon fat, 1 cup hot water for boiling water, 1 teaspoon sugar, ¼ teaspoon ginger, few grains white pepper, ½ teaspoon salt.

Wash and pick greens, put into a sauce pan. Mix and sift sugar, salt, ginger and pepper and sprinkle over greens. Cut lemon in two or three slices and add with fat and water. Cover and cook hard for twenty minutes, stirring frequently to prevent sticking. Let stand over a low fire for fifteen minutes. Remove slices of lemon and serve hot.

Baked escarole is good for luncheon or with a meal. Most of the varieties of greens are lacking in fat so a fat meat should accompany them.

BAKED ESCAROLE

One bunch or two pounds escarole, 3 tablespoons bacon fat or butter, 3 tablespoons hot water, salt and pepper.

Blanch escarole by plunging into boiling water for five minutes. This removes excess bitterness. Drain and put into a buttered baking dish. Dissolve bouillon cube in boiling water, add fat or butter and salt and pepper and pour over escarole. If you use bacon fat, less salt will be necessary than if a less salty fat is used. Cover baking dish and bake in a moderate oven 350 (degrees F.) for thirty minutes or until tender. Serve from baking dish with stuffed pork chops or a slice of ham baked in milk.

A LIFE SAVER

It is a sound rule not to make an opening bid upon a bare two and one-half quick tricks. There should be some added values, such as ability to show another suit, support for a shift by partner or rebid value in the suit called. South had none of these added values, hence he primarily was responsible for the results. Had South passed, it is certain that neither West nor North registered any agency, secures work as a model.

For a week-end where she is modelling she meets CAROL MARSH, rich and snobbish. She also sees wealthy TIM JAMIESON who has been trying for some time to persuade her to dine with him. Impetuously she agrees.

Tim showers her with attentions and Toby admits to herself that she is falling in love with him. She is surprised one evening when, shortly after their arrival at the fashionable Seville Club, Tim insists on leaving. He has phoned, he says, leaving next day for Maryland, to be gone "a few days."

Later Toby learns that Carol Marsh is in Maryland attending a house party.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Gorgeous

BY LAURA LOU BROCKMAN © 1936 NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

TOBY RYAN, 19, works behind the jewelry counter of a large Manhattan departmental store. She poses for a photograph to be used in a store advertisement and MARTY BLAKE, the photographer, tells her she has a "camera face."

Discharged from the store due to the scheming of jealous MAURINE HALL, Toby has difficulty finding another job. Then she meets Marty Blake and he sends word to DEN BLAKE, manager of a model agency. Den registers Toby at the agency, secures work as a model.

CHAPTER XX

TOBY spent a sleepless night and awoke with a headache. Harriet was worried about her, but Harriet had to leave for work with appointment. Standing in the doorway, she looked back anxiously.

"You're sure there isn't anything you want?" she asked. "Anything I can get you?"

"No," Toby said. "I'm going to be all right. I think I feel better already."

She didn't, but she wanted to be alone. After the door had closed on the other girl, Toby pressed her head against the pillow and closed her eyes. If she could sleep, she thought, the pain in her head might stop.

But before she knew it, she was again going over the arguments she had repeated so often in her self the night before. There was no reason—none at all—to suspect that, just because Tim had gone to Maryland, he was at the house party Carol Marsh was attending. Why, Maryland was a whole state. There were hundreds of towns in Maryland. It was merely a coincidence that Carol was there, that's all. A surprising coincidence—but how many times had she heard that truth is stranger than fiction?

If Tim would only write or telephone—

She lay very still, thinking that perhaps, if she did that, by some magic the telephone across the room might ring. She was so still it seemed she could hear her heart beat. But the telephone did not ring.

Then the scene in the Seville Club, that last night, when Tim had spent together, came back—so vividly Toby might have been seeing it all again. Tim's sudden insistence that they should leave, rushing her away almost before she knew what she was about. And the memory of Carol, cool and beautiful in her silver gown, sitting at that table not a dozen feet away.

Had Carol and her friends just arrived? Was that why Tim was in such a hurry to go somewhere else? The thought held infinite torture, and Toby tortured herself as women in love, before her, have done.

Tim had explained, of course, and she had believed him. Oh, she had wanted to believe him! She wanted to believe him now, but why didn't she hear from him?

At last, tired by the unanswered and unanswerable arguments, Toby slept.

When Harriet returned in the afternoon she found her roommate sitting by the window, mending a blouse.

"Why, Toby," Harriet said. "That's my blouse. You shouldn't be doing that!"

"Oh, I saw it lying there and thought I might as well be working at something. It just about finished."

She held up the blouse for inspection. Toby's stitches were neat and tiny.

"Hm." Harriet said. "Better than I could do. Is the headache gone?" Toby nodded. "I'm feeling fine now," she said. She didn't look as though she was feeling fine, by any means, but Harriet was too concerned with her own affairs to notice. "Clyde's coming tonight," she exclaimed jubilantly. "I found a letter from him when I came in. He's going to get in town about 5 o'clock and he's coming to take me to dinner. I don't know whether to wear my green dress or that new black one—"

"Wear the black one," Toby advised. "It makes you look as though you'd just stepped off a ritzy magazine cover."

"All right, if you say so. Listen, Toby, I wish you'd come with us! Clyde knows a lot of men. I know he'd be glad to call one of them to go along."

"No," Toby said hastily. "Some other time, maybe, but not tonight."

"But, honestly, I think it would do you good. You've been in the house so much lately."

"I just don't feel like it, Harriet. I'd rather not."

"Well—maybe you'll change your mind later." Harriet suggested. She eyed her roommate uncertainly. Something was the matter with Toby; she hadn't been a bit like herself lately. Harriet suspected it had something to do with Tim Jamieson. He'd given Toby such a rush for a while. Now he was gone and Toby didn't seem to want to talk about where he was or when he'd be back. All she had said was that he was out of town. Harriet was inclined to hope he was, and that he would stay there. Anyone who made Toby look so miserable was good riddance!

It was half an hour later that the telephone rang. Harriet answered and then, lowering the instrument, put a hand over the receiver. "It's for you, Toby," she said.

"For me?" The words were the barest echo of the song in Toby's heart. Tim was calling at last! He was home again and all her silly worries and fears had been for nothing. Oh, she had known it. She had known it all along!

She took the telephone and said, trying to keep her voice as steady as possible. "Hello—"

But it was not Tim who answered. For an instant Toby didn't understand the voice on the wire. She only knew it was not Tim's voice. There was a pause and then she heard herself speaking, heard herself trying to stifle disappointment. "Oh, Bill—how are you?"

It was plain that she hadn't recognized Bill Brandt's voice. Only she had been so sure—so very sure it would be Tim. Toby suddenly realized how long it had been since she had seen Bill. Almost two weeks, except for a brief encounter on the street. Until lately she'd seen Bill two and three times each week.

He said, "Oh, I'm getting along all right. How's America's most popular advertising model?"

Toby laughed. Something about the way Bill said things almost always made you want to laugh. "I really didn't mean to," he said. "Is she an acquaintance of yours?"

"I'll say she is. Toby Ryan, her name is. Skinny little thing, about as big as a minute. Maybe you've heard of her?"

"Never." Toby was emphatic. "But if I ever do see her, I'll remember she's a friend of yours."

"That's right. Give her a break. She deserves it. And, by the way, how about going one more? I haven't seen you in a coon's age. You don't think it's about time we went down to the old swimmin' where they have the corned beef and cabbage? If you're looking for something fancier, I might even be able to manage that. Not too fancy, of course."

Toby's voice was regretful. "I'd like to Bill—but I'm afraid I can't both!"

"Some other boy friend ahead of me, huh? You're certainly getting to be a popular little girl."

"I really do want to see you, Bill. Call me again, won't you?"

"Well, from where I'm standing, it looks very much as though I would. And I hope I have better luck. So long, Toby."

"So long, Bill."

She put down the telephone. Harriet, busily manicuring her nails, looked up. "Was that the Bill you introduced me to the other day, the one we met on the street that day?"

"Yes, Bill Brandt."

"Hm. Nice sort of fellow, I thought. If it wasn't for Clyde I might try to give you a little competition."

"Hm." There may have been an answer on the tip of Harriet's tongue, but if there was, she kept it to herself.

Clyde Sabin telephoned later and then arrived at the apartment. He wasn't at all the sort of person Toby had expected him to be. In the first place, he was older—well into the 30's, anyway. Toby's 19 that seemed middle-age to Harriet was 32.

Sabin was tall and broad-shouldered and very well tailored. Not at all handsome, but rather nice-looking. And certainly pleasant to be pleasant. Toby thought perhaps he tried a little too hard. Maybe that was the reason she didn't like him at ease with him. She couldn't think of any other reason.

Sabin repeated Harriet's invitation for Toby to join them for the evening. "Let me see, it's Wednesday, isn't it? Garside," he said. "I know he'd be glad to come along. Tom's a nice fellow, don't you think so?"

But Toby made it plain that she preferred to stay in, and when the others saw she meant it they gave their urging.

They left finally and Toby went to the window and looked out. Dusk had settled over the street, in half an hour it would be dark. Already Manhattan's electrical splendor was in evidence, though Toby could not see it. Nearby buildings, bleak, unlighted, closed their windows against the night. Across the street, in the apartment directly opposite, a man sat in his shirt sleeves, reading a newspaper. Toby could see the top of his head, the paper he held in front of him.

CHORINE TWINS STARS FOR NEW MUSIKER REVUE

The element of novelty and the dancing "sisters" Winn and Cel combined with Charlie Wright's unspoken by pleasantly suggestive "you're gonna like this" introductions to make the end-of-the-week edition of the Music Box one of the most entertaining yet staged at the Strand.

The highlight of the show came with a soft shoe number by Winn and Cel, done to the rhythm of "Is It Love." The chorines were done out in long white veily gowns cut away at the front and they threw a little of everything—but high kick, lap and shim-sham into their routine.

The opening number of the Fashionettes was particularly effective as a novelty. The stage in darkness was stabbed by a spotlight falling on M.C. Charlie Wright who broadcast on a "police band" a warning of "bandits"—the fashionettes, who yegg-like toted flashlights to pierce the on-stage gloom.

Featured in an Oriental dance, Phyllis (Swing's High Priestess) Bolton has appeared to better advantage. Her dancing done with an expected wriggling of the arms and legs was akle-doble, but the routine could have been given sure-fire sock with the nifty Bolton vocalizing and a shot of shoulder-shaking. Costumes were swellegent.

Jean Walker, the blonde blossom of the Music Box was delightfully dreamy, singing "For All We Know." Gowned in mauve the Personality Miss appeal but the song did not give her the same chance as did "Shootin' High" or "Soliude."

The Cee Cameron musikers whooped it up in fine style on the hoary "Some of These Days." Johnny (The Mad Monk) Van Deelan being in great form and coaxing some notes from his slippery horn that sounded like a ten ton truck back firing from the bottom of a lake of oil. A symphonic arrangement of "Two Guitars" and "After Dark" with Joe (the artist) Miceli doing the vocals minus the megaphone he used to put over "Lights Out" were the other numbers by the dansapators.

"An Wilderness" a particularly strong feature bringing back memories to the young people of yesteryear and providing a new experience for today's newer generations, was on the screen.

Catholics Parade

PUENTO MEXICO, Veracruz, Mexico, April 2.—Five thousand Catholics paraded yesterday in protest against the handing over of a church to agrarians for the establishment of headquarters. Catholics guarded the church and said they were prepared to resist forcibly its occupation by the agrarians.

Hollywood Gossip

INTIMATE GLIMPSES AND INSIDE STUFF ON THE MOVIE COLONY

—By PAUL HARRISON—

AN airplane slips through a narrow mountain pass during a heavy snowstorm. Propellers falter; you know that ice must be forming on the wings. It does; altitude, almost grazes the tops of tall pines, flattens to a forced landing in a meadow beside an icy river. Wheels plow through deep white banks and it comes to a clumsy, breath-taking halt.

Fifteen feet away a perspiring director yells, "Cut!"

The incident has occurred in the miniature tank on the Paramount lot. The scene is for "Thirteen Hours by Air," in which Fred MacMurray is supposed to be the pilot of a trans-continental run.

Painstaking technicians, 16 in all, manoeuvre a four-foot model airplane with a maze of slim wires and pulleys. They're the puppeteers of Hollywood. In the background are mountains made of wood and plaster. Powdered gypsum is fed into a wind machine and it speeds past the camera like snow.

Other wires carry current to the plane, lighting its cabin and turning its propellers. A previously recorded strip of film provides the sound.

Movie magic at its best.

GENERAL SHAKE-UP

All Paramount is in panic over the upset of its management. Hudsles are being held by lawyers, eastern bankers, and all those involved in the far-flung complications of a big corporation.

Just what Wall Street knows about the making of good pictures is one of the questions that's seldom considered. There's talk of Winfield Sheehan moving into control, and the veteran Adolph Zukor, and even Irving Thalberg.

My own nomination would be Spanky McFarland.

ROMANCE IS BOOKED FOR WEEK ON RIALTO FILM

Not since the sensational "One Night of Love" has any picture created such an anticipatory flurry of excitement among motion picture fans and music lovers as the new production, "Here's to Romance" which is scheduled for a full week's run at the Rialto next week.

Devotees of both arts are looking forward to the much-heralded motion picture debut of Nino Martini, whose spectacular career in opera and concert may soon be matched by his motion picture fame.

Fresh from a concert tour in which he made eighty-six consecutive appearances, Martini began work on this picture, which features him with Genevieve Tobin, Anita Louise and Mme. Schumann-Heink.

With romance and music as the leading entertainment elements, the picture also offers some unusual dance interpretations by Maria Gambarelli and Vincente Escudero.

Alfred E. Green directed "Here's to Romance" from a screen story by Ernest Pascal and Arthur Richman.

BRITAIN COMPLETES MOST FORMIDABLE AIR WEAPON IN FAST BOMBING PLANE

LONDON, April 2.—A new single-engined bombing plane, described as the most formidable air weapon yet developed, is now being put through its final tests, air ministry officials disclosed Tuesday.

The plane is said to be capable of a speed of 300 miles an hour. Although it is yet to be placed into service by the Royal Air Force, it is regarded as one of the most important developments to date in British military aviation.

It is said to be so fast, and so advanced in range, carrying power, and ease of manoeuvring that single-seater fighter planes will be practically useless against it.

Known as the Fairey "Battle" medium bomber, it is powered with a new Rolls-Royce Merlin 12-cylinder engine, has a 54-foot wing spread and an overall length of 42 feet 1½ inches. Bombs are carried inside the wings.

AMUSEMENTS

CAPITOL

It is no accident that the running motif of the Chaplin films is poverty or that the protagonist of his stories is usually a tramp.

This theme—with comic variations—has been predominent in "The Kid," "The Circus," "The Gold Rush," and "City Lights." Now, in "Modern Times," which is showing at the Capitol theatre today and Friday, Chaplin lifts his baton once more to conduct the symphony of the underdog.

The comedian's loyalty to this strain has its roots in something more fundamental, even, than the artist's credo. It derives from his own life, and from a childhood framed in poverty.

Paulette Goddard, who plays opposite the comedian in "Modern Times," is the newest recruit to the roster of Chaplin finds. Their association is the result of a chance meeting on the Goldwyn lot two years ago. Miss Goddard, who played a bit in a Cantor picture, was then a blonde. Chaplin, convinced she would be more attractive as a brunette, persuaded her to let her hair grow back to its natural shade. So confident is he of her talent that he has already made plans to star her in several pictures to be directed by himself. "Modern Times" is a United Artists release.

STRAND

The delicate tracery of Eugene O'Neill's drama with its poignant humanness, its down-to-earth simplicity and its dynamic dramatic power is vividly caught on the talking screen in "Ah Wilderness" now playing at the Strand Theatre.

Acclaimed on the stage where it was played both by George M. Cohan and the late Will Rogers, the film version now adds the lavish scope of screen production to the dramatic story. Its location scenes in the quaint New England town of Grafton, Mass., its charming home sequences, and its camera effects add a sense of reality that only the talking screen could achieve.

Wallace Beery plays one of the greatest roles he has ever given pictures as the ineffective, alcoholic but lovable Uncle Sid, running the gamut from comedy to poignant tragedy with Aline MacMahon, who plays the spinster aunt who loves but cannot marry him.

PRINCESS

Somewhere back in the colorful past that goes to make a real story teller, Irvin S. Cobb was once a steamboat pilot, on the Ohio River. Now, supporting Will Rogers in "Steamboat Round the Bend," now at the Princess Theatre, Cobb gets a chance to re-enact his old true-life role.

Of course the river in the picture is the Mississippi in the 1880's and Cobb is now a steamboat captain, but he has opportunities to show what he really knows about navigation in the thrilling boat race that marks the climax of the picture.

GAS PUZZLE FACES NORTH FLYING MEN

Find Gasoline Prices Fluctuate Remarkably on Wilderness Routes

While British Columbia soloists probe the oil and gas set-up on the coast and Edmontonians kick at the high price of motor fuel, the northland aerial transportation companies are coping with a gasoline price spreads of their own.

The flight of Canadian Airways Pilot Mat Berry to Cambridge Bay disclosed that after gasoline leaves Edmonton or down river points it gets dearer and dearer approaching Fort Norman and then gets cheaper and cheaper along the Arctic coast.

Thursday Berry was hung up at Coppermine waiting for the Arctic weather to clear for his hop to Cambridge Bay. Hudson's Bay boats, working out of Kittigaruit just east of the Mackenzie delta, caches Canadian Airways gas at Reid Island and Cambridge Bay. It costs $1.35 a gallon at Fort Norman and Great Bear and after freighting through the delta, around the coast and through Amundson Bay, Coronation Gulf and Dease Strait, the price is 35 cents cheaper.

It's just one of those things that only the oil companies can explain.

PAUL M'DONALD, PIONEER DOCTOR DIED WEDNESDAY

Dr. Paul A. McDonald, 63, respected member of Edmonton's medical fraternity for the past 31 years, died Wednesday after an illness of nearly a year. He was moved to hospital a few months ago for an operation and treatment.

He was born at Creemore, Ont., in 1873 and was educated at the public and high schools of Carleton Place, Ont., and Huntingdon, Que. He entered McGill university, graduated with Arts and Medical degrees with the class of 1902 and then took post graduate work in Edinburgh and Glasgow, also studying in Scotland he was awarded his L.R.C.P.S.

FORMER SHIP SURGEON

From 1903 till 1905 he practised as ship's surgeon on a little liner that pounded up and down the west African coast, encountering natives, tourists and European managers of African estates.

His father, Dr. D. McDonald, was a Presbyterian minister, in Edmonton. The young doctor abandoned his seafaring career and started up a practice in Strathcona. For some years he lived with his two sisters, the Misses Lila and Edna McDonald.

ARDENT NIMROD

He was a member of the Alberta Game and Fish Protective Association, the Alberta Medical Association and the Edmonton Academy of Medicine. For the past 28 years he had been medical adviser to the Sons of England as well as to Lodge Devonia, No. 78, Daughters of England.

At a meeting held Wednesday night the members of the Edmonton Academy of Medicine adopted a resolution of sympathy to his two sisters. "He was a very quiet and unassuming man, who won the respect of his patients. He will be greatly missed by the members of the medical profession," said one doctor.

The funeral will be held at 2:30 p.m. Friday from Howard and McBride's chapel to Mount Pleasant cemetery. Rev. George A. Macdonald will officiate.

To distribute the strain evenly, an Englishman has invented a tennis racquet having V-shaped arms terminating in a short handle.

Legislature Accepts Amendment to Mothers' Allowance Act Moved By Gerald O'Connor.

Accepting an amendment moved by Gerald O'Connor, Liberal, Edmonton, the legislature on Wednesday gave greater consideration to deserted women by incorporating in the Mothers' Allowance act, provision that there can be brought under the act, any married woman deserted by her husband "without reasonable cause" for a period of five years and upwards.

Heretofore the period of desertion necessary to qualify for the act was seven years.

NO OPPOSITION

Strong representations were advanced by Mr. O'Connor for inclusion of the reduced period in the act and there was no opposition to his motion.

Mrs. Edith Rogers, S.C., Ponoka, wondered if women would not be just as well off on relief, and Mrs. Edith Gostick, S.C., Calgary, drew attention to the plight of some women sent out to work on some of the farms—not all—of the province where modern conveniences and facilities were lacking.

E. P. Foster, S.C., Didsbury, contended that women should not be placed in the position where they should have to undergo unreasonable inconvenience.

Considerable discussion centred on the amending bill to the Insurance Act, which Hon. Ernest C. Manning, provincial treasurer, was piloting through the house.

Mr. Gerhart objected to the clause which permits a 15-year-old boy to sign an application for insurance.

SHOULD BE DELETED

"Surely we are not going to say a boy or girl is going to be able to sign an insurance contract," declared J. H. Unwin, S.C., Edson. "This clause should be deleted."

Hon. Mr. Manning: "This clause was passed 10 years ago."

W. J. Langdon, S.C., Peace River, declared that the clause should not be in the Act.

Aid to help that the clause has been on the statute books for 10 years," declared Herbert Ingrey, S.C., Drumheller. "I do not think that it is a proper clause."

R. E. Ansley, S.C., Leduc, declared with the amendment suggested that the boy or girl could sign with the consent of the parent or guardian, who have equal control.

S. A. G. Barnes, S.C., Edmonton, pointed out that there were many boys and girls of 15 with none to tell them what to do. He urged that consideration should exist on policies beyond the capacity of applicants to pay.

CHARGES INCONSISTENCY

This created a storm of protest from the liquor amendments, declared that boys of 15 were not capable of looking after themselves and now he says that these same boys are capable of knowing and realizing the significance of signing insurance policies." Mr. Unwin then said that "you might as well set the age at 21."

"He's all wet," came a voice from the gallery, which a few minutes later caused Mr. Unwin to direct attention of Sergeant-at-Arms H. S. Newby to the gallery. The Sergeant made a pilgrimage to the public gallery. He spoke to a spectator and later resumed his place on the floor of the house.

Mr. Lampley wanted to see proper protection. But, he thought, a boy of 15 did not need any insurance and he felt $200 or $300 would be sufficient, in order to take care of the expense in the event of the unfortunate death of the insured.

PROGRESS REPORTED

After further discussion, progress was reported.

During a brief discussion on the bill to amend the Water Resources Act, Hon. W. N. Chant, minister of agriculture said that some 2,000 applications had been received this year for building of small dams and other water storage facilities.

"If object to this whole bill" declared James Hartley, S.C., Macleod. He moved that the whole bill stand, but was over-ruled.

PILOTS PUSHING THROUGH NORTH

With break-up at the Fort McMurray base only two weeks away, Canadian Airways planes were buzzing through the northland like a flight of angry bees.

Thursday, Pilot Rankin was headed into Aklavik with the last mail of the winter. That delta fort normally gets two winter air mails, but Rankin's trip Thursday ended the ante to three.

Hopping from McMurray to Goldfields and back to McMurray, Pilot Farrell was hurrying to complete his schedule and pick up Dr. Kidd's geological party at the end of the steel Friday. Farrell will fly the party and one ton of freight in charge of Dr. E. V. Gillanders of Vancouver into the Great Slave Lake country where the summer will be spent prospecting.

Pilot Heuss, jumping from McMurray to Goldfields is completing his third day at charter work for Archie Cameron of Ventures.

"Southbound from Fort Simpson," was McMullen's report and Matt Berry swaits at Coppermine for fog to clear the Arctic coast for his hop to Cambridge Bay for fur

MONDAY SET FOR OPENING SPRING SHOW

With the largest list of entries for several years on the book, indications were Thursday that the Edmonton Spring show, which opens Monday, April 6, and will run through to Thursday, will swing back into pre-depression style.

The Arena will house the fat stock show April 8 and the annual bull sale the following day will bring the cream of Alberta's livestock to the block.

While "bull sale" may look pretty tame in print, during the week said means money—and big money to farmers—and choice tenderloins for the delectation after noon-wise representatives of the packing houses and big scale butchers banter bids on the prize animals go under the hammer of Auctioneer J. W. Durno, of Calgary.

Indications that big money is living in wait for fatted stock came from Calgary Wednesday, when at the first day of the bull sale in the southern city, $36,290 was sunk in prize animals. Individual prices ran from a high of $1,000 for the grand champion down through the hundreds to an average of $168 for Herefords.

Police Court

Magistrate James Ritchie in city police court Thursday fined 20 truck drivers $2 and costs of $3.25 each for operating highway trucks loaded to truck and trailer traffic. Of these 15 were stopped on the Jasper highway and five on the Calgary highway.

Change of the city boundary outside which the ban was effective to 149 street, instead of 156 street which was last year's boundary, caught 11 of the drivers, some of whom lived beyond 149 street. Special permits have been issued since to some.

One of the operators asked if any change might be secured, and was advised to make representations to the department of public works. "This court will support you if you wish to make a recommendation regarding the city limit," Magistrate Ritchie said.

Two truck were delivering coal at 153 and 154 streets, some were empty when stopped. One man said he started out from the west the night before the ban was in effect but the rough condition of the road slowed him so that the ban boat him by a few hours. One of the drivers on the south highway started with a load of oil from Edmonton and the ban came into effect as he reached Didsbury.

William Osterman was fined $1 without costs for failing to produce his driver's license. He told the court he was summoned in March and did not have a license, which cost 50 cents, because he would have to replace it by another costing $1 on April 1. He was waiting until April to buy it, had since sold his car, so that he had no need for the license. Ironically he paid $1 in court for no license.

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

Basketball teams from the United States which are now coming to play Edmonton's Commercial Grads for International honors are reported in many quarters to be "loaded for bear." Their players are rounded up from all over the country.

Do you think the A.A.U. should make stricter rules so that local teams would be composed of local players instead of being all-stars?

This question provoked the following answers:

CLARE HOLLINGSWORTH, basketball coach: "Our Grads have proved that it is not a team of all-stars which succeeds but a squad with five players who have been trained to depend upon one another."

JERRY BRICKER, businessman: "The American teams are playing for international competition, so they should have the privilege of picking players from any point in the United States, even though it doesn't do them any good when they come to play the Grads."

* * *

ETHEL JOHNSON, basketball player: "When a team is after the highest laurels they should have the privilege of picking their players wherever they can get the best ones. The more perfection we strive for the more the game will improve."

JEANNETTE FAURE, sports fan: "I think a little more strictness in keeping teams confined to local players, through a residence rule, would be beneficial to the sport. Scouting for players from all parts of the country causes a tendency towards semi-professionalism."

LEANCE LAMOUREUX, former basketball player: "The teams should be made up of local girls. When a team is built up in its home city, that spirit and pride which is essential to greatness is developed."

TEST LIQUID AIR MACHINE

The liquid air apparatus recently installed in the chemical laboratories of the University of Alberta was given its first test this week by Dr. E. H. Boomer, professor of chemistry, and was judged most successful.

Giving his demonstration before a large group of chemists, Dr. Boomer used ordinary air as the raw product. The intricate machinery compresses and expands it, employing coal air to further cool itself, until a temperature of 300 degrees below zero Fahrenheit is reached. At that temperature nitrogen and oxygen elements in air liquify and unite to form a liquid compound.

Liquid air is used in chemical experiments as a cooling off substance and the University was formerly compelled to send to Calgary to obtain it.

The new apparatus is capable of producing six pounds of liquid air in an hour and is one of the latest models.

Adjutant J. F. Morrison, of the Salvation Army, officiated, and pall-bearers were: George Moore, Stanley Alexander, Richard Shortridge, William King, Peter Karpluck and David Lamont.

Clearing house figures for Edmonton banks this week are $3,838,819. Last year for the corresponding week the clearings were $4,542,222.

James Macfarlane Marr, former Edmonton resident and member of the Ninth Battalion since 1914, died at the age of 54 in Victoria, B.C., recently. Interment took place in the soldiers' plot, Royal Oak Park. He leaves his widow and two children, Elizabeth and Isabella of Victoria.

Group of 16 sketches, including several water colors of the sea, are being shown in the Edmonton Museum of Arts, Civic Block, until April 20. They were painted by Charles H. Scott, director of the Vancouver School of Art, and are entitled "The Spirit of Savary."

A young man residing in Thorsby and who came to Edmonton Tuesday suffering from typhoid fever, was sent to the Isolation hospital here Wednesday afternoon by order of the city health department, it was learned from Dr. R. B. Jenkins, M.H.O., Thursday. Seven cases of this disease have been reported in the Thorsby district, and provincial health officers are checking the occurrence.

MARKET STRONG ON CITY BONDS AFTER DEFAULT

Failure of the provincial government to redeem debentures maturing April 1 has not affected City of Edmonton bonds to any great extent so far, the market for city bonds being reported steady Thursday.

Asked whether the city sinking fund board had received any offers from Alberta bondholders anxious to get rid of defaulted holdings, City Treasurer Frank Barnhouse smiled and said none had been received yet.

At its regular meeting Thursday morning, the sinking fund board authorized the purchase of $2,000 of City of Edmonton 5½ per cent debentures due in 1944 on a basis of $7.05.

The board has not yet arrived at a decision on city council's request that the sinking fund purchase $250,000 of bonds which the city proposes to issue to cover a portion of 1936 relief costs.

FAIR AND MILD IS FORECASTED

Old Sol waved his bright wand of shiny rays Thursday and the sub-zero temperatures of yesterday disappeared from northern Alberta, except here in Edmonton.

From Wednesday's high of 18 above at 3:00 p.m., the mercury skidded down-glass to touch eight below at 4:00 a.m., where it held steady for three hours, climbing to 12 above at 9:00 a.m.

Official prognosticators break the back of winter's grip Thursday with the forecast of "fair and becoming milder."

No other point in the northern half of the province had a sub-zero reading, although Grouard, with zero, came dangerously close to giving Edmonton some competition in chill weather.

Compared to the city, the old reliable Fort Vermilion, 100 miles above, was basking in summery weather. Mirror Landing, where it was 28 above, was the warmest point in the north Thursday.

Gyros Install Club Officers

Stuart Johnstone, newly elected president of the Gyro Club of Edmonton along with the new directors was installed in the annual banquet and dance of the club held in the Macdonald hotel Tuesday night. Morely Grigg retiring president, was presented with the Gyro emblem ring.

The new directors are: James Slessor, Russell Carter, John Howard, William Muir, Robert Dickson and Charles D. Forsythe.

MACKENZIE AIR SERVICE BUSY

Mackenzie Air Services was "Flying High" the past 24 hours with six pay-loads moving.

A few minutes before day-break at 6.00 a.m. Thursday nine passengers waited in the company offices and a pair of trucks rolled to the airport with two full plane loads of express. South Side Store Burgled Tuesday

Burglars who left no footprints despite the fact there was fresh snow where they entered, broke into the Service Department Store, 10367 Whyte avenue, Tuesday night stealing $10 from the cash register. Max Bernstein, proprietor, said entrance was gained by pulling up a grating and forcing open a basement window. There was snow below the window.

John Roe, Local Boy, Is Accepted By English Firm

John Roe, 20-year-old son of Dr. Edmund A. Roe, 10242 121 street, will leave Edmonton Monday bound for England where he has secured a position with Phillips and Powis Aircraft Limited, at Reading.

John is an Edmonton-raised boy, a graduate of Westmount High School and Edmonton Technical School. Throughout his career he has shown an astonishing aptitude for design. His efforts in this direction have met with such success that a New York publication has accepted and published more than a dozen of his sketches of model aircraft.

It was chiefly through the fame created by those sketches that he obtained his new position with the English aircraft company. He has been assigned to the draughting and designing department.

PRINCE ALBERT BIDS FOR MAIL ROUTES NORTH

Casting jealous eyes on the million dollar supply business flowing through this city to Goldfields, The Prince Albert Herald turned its editorial guns on "interloping" Edmonton Wednesday.

The Prince Albert news-organ has recently been given over to printing "phoney" news stories of Saskatchewan air companies' record flights into the new mining field, but Wednesday's edition was the first to add the dignified weight of editorial page comment to the claims of its city for the northland transportation business.

The paper preached Edmonton Thursday and exploded in the airways offices.

"Goldfields go down there and pop the guy who wrote it," stormed one transportation chief.

Inquest Opens In Death Of Sawyer

Inquest into the death of Otto Froberg, 44, lumberman of Highvale, who died Tuesday afternoon following an accident at a sawmill, while he was being rushed to Edmonton for medical treatment, was opened at 10 a.m. Thursday. Dr. Braithwaite, chief coroner, presided and the court was held at Andrews Brothers funeral chapel. Froberg's eye was crushed in but it was uncertain just how the accident happened.

A jury was sworn and allowed to view the body, following which the hearing adjourned to April 9 at 10 a.m. R.C.M. Police will meantime complete investigations at the scene of the accident. Surgeon was Jack Macdonald, foreman; Walter J. Long, A. M. Brunlees, William Brazill, R. Green and J. Fletcher.

M'KEE TROPHY WINNER WINGS TO NORTHLAND

Like a wind from the south, William S. Archibald, assistant general manager of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company, who commutes daily by air from his Creston, B.C., home to Trail offices, passed through the city Thursday morning.

Arriving by the overnight Calgary train from Trail, the middle-aged C.M.S. official who this year snatched the McKee flying trophy from birdmen years younger, checked in at the Macdonald only long enough to slide out of his business suit and into flying togs and then took off for Goldfields. A company plane piloted by Pete McPhee with engineer Bishop aboard flew in from Goldfields to pick up the mining chief.

The McKee Trophy holding mines executive was here and gone again with the speed of a spring afternoon in the middle of a January cold snap. The trophy is given for the most distinguished contribution to Canadian aviation.

BROOMHALL

CHICAGO, April 2—The Liverpool market responded to the break in North America on Tuesday, but subsequently rallied and closed steady at the high of the day. A great deal of the Australian wheat has been hedged in the Liverpool May and it is expected that a good proportion will be delivered next month it crop conditions remain satisfactory. Hedges, however, are removed on all flour sales or whenever any bullish feeling develops. Quantities of wheat on passage to Europe are still substantial.

Two small cargoes have been reported chartered for wheat from Portugal to London the last half of May. It is reported that only 9,000,000 bushels of grain space has been chartered at St. Lawrence ports for May and June clearance.

LIVERPOOL, April 2—Wheat futures held steady early, on Oriental buying, but eased later on pressure of Australian arrivals.

Cotton declines under hedging and Bombay selling, which was absorbed by trade callin. Sentiment was confused pending more definite details of the Washington marketing policies.

LONDON, April 2—Buyers were more confident in the stock market today on the latest political developments. Industrials and investment issues strengthened Oils, Transatlantics and gold mining shares moved higher although foreign bonds eased somewhat. The market closed firm.

WHEAT PRICES AT LOW LEVELS

WINNIPEG, April 2.—New season's low levels for wheat were posted on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today as futures prices declined sharply despite continued brisk foreign buying of Canada's chief commodity.

Values closed 1¾-2 cents lower as a measure of recovery ensued in the penultimate dealings, May at 80, July 81 and October 81¼-⅜ cents.

Sharp price breaks at Chicago led to heavy selling here and values receded swiftly. Forced stop-loss selling hastened the recession.

Export sales of Canadian wheat worked on the break were estimated at approximately 2,000,000 bushels, bringing the total sales in the past three days to 4,000,000 bushels.

Declines of more than 1½ cents a bushel were scored at Chicago, Liverpool, too, was weak, off ⅛-⅝d at the close.

Odd-lot transactions ruled in an inactive cash-grains market. Good buying in oats and barley held those coarse grains firm despite the weakness in wheat, but rye prices fell off sharply under liquidation.

CHILDREN WILL RECEVE MEALS

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., April 2.—Commencing today meals will be provided for children of relief strikers. This decision was reached last night at a mass meeting where a collection was taken by the strikers to provide the necessary food. Approximately $24 was realized.

Five hundred persons, comprising ratepayers as well as strikers, crowded into the hall, but the city council was not represented, the invitation to attend having been ignored. The meeting was devoted to a discussion of the grievances of the strikers.

A portion of the city's relief recipients launched a strike on Monday, demanding work and wages or failing that, direct relief with no work.

A sub-committee of the cabinet is working out details of the proposed action, the nature of which was not revealed.

Manitoba Agrees To Loan Council

WINNIPEG, April 2—While the Manitoba government has agreed to the proposed Dominion-provincial loan council in principle, Premier John Bracken last night informed the Manitoba legislature the government is not committed to participate in it.

Questioned by W. Sanford Evans, Conservative leader, Premier Bracken said the Manitoba government has not considered details of the proposal.

Mr. Evans raised the question by drawing attention to publication of correspondence respecting the council between the Alberta and Dominion governments.

HIGH-GRADING RINGS ACTIVE

TORONTO, April 2.—At least two high-grade rings have been active in recent months in Ontario, G. C. Bateman, secretary of the Ontario Mining Association, said Wednesday. He said their headquarters were at Detroit and Cleveland, the practice being to buy stolen gold in northern Ontario and smuggle it into the United States. "Right now high-grading from northern Ontario is at its peak," the secretary said.

Grads Face Strong Opposition In Des Moines Hoopsters

BULETN SPORTS

Team Runner Up To Champs in American National Tournament — Langerman Sisters On Team.

Looming up as one of the strongest challengers ever to invade Edmonton, the American Business Institute girls of Des Moines, Iowa, will pay the city a visit next week in the first series of games to be staged at the Arena this year. Following the games with Des Moines, and regardless of the outcome of the series, will be games with Tulsa and El Dorado, the latter team being better known to Edmontonians as the former Durant Cardinals—the only team that ever humbled the Grads in their 21 years of competition.

Something of the calibre of the teams coming to Edmonton may be judged from the fact that these three teams finished first, second and third in the recent American national tournament, held annually at Wichita, Kansas. Twenty-six of the strongest teams in the states took part in the tournament, which covered an entire week's play, and it speaks volumes for the courage and sportsmanship of the Grads that they are giving Edmonton fans an opportunity of seeing all three winners in action.

PLAYED HERE BEFORE

The Des Moines team played here last spring, and it will be recalled that they gave every evidence of developing into an outstanding quintet, so that their feat in finishing just an eyelash behind Tulsa, the national champions, shows to what extent they have come along during the past year. Part of this marked improvement has been due to the addition of "Jo" and "Gene" Langerman, the 5' 11" twins who played on the Tulsa team last year. "Jo" was selected as a member of the mythical All-American team following the tournament, and "Gene" was given honorable mention. The defensive play of the Des Moines team was regarded as the finest shown by any team in the tournament.

Against the galaxy of stars the Grads will present their smallest team in their long history, and a team materially weakened by the loss of former Captain Margaret MacBurney and the recent illness of Babe Belanger. Coach Percy Page, and his assistant, Arnold Henderson, have been working overtime trying to get a battle disorganized team into shape, but it is a question whether or not the champions will be able to match the powerful quintets which are headed this way.

START 22ND SEASON

Next week's games will mark the opening of the twenty-second season for the Grads—a record never approached by any other basketball organization. Over this long period of time, the girls have scored 400 official victories in 421 starts—another record that stands without parallel so far as is known. Whether the record can be kept unbroken after the Des Moines girls have had their fling at the Underwood trophy is the thing which has local basketball fans worried right now.

RHODE ISLAND PUCK FINALISTS

PROVIDENCE, R.I., April 2—Rhode Island Reds gained the finals of the Canadian-American league hockey playoffs by defeating Springfield Indians 4-2 before 4,600 fans here last night.

The Reds will meet Philadelphia Ramblers in the finals.

Time and time again they had to dig and tuck all the way with the Reds twice taking the lead, only to be overtaken by the streaking Indians. The latter lacked the services of their defense star, Bruno Bress.

Albert Leduc, wily Providence manager, scored the first goal for the Reds in the third minute of the second period. Four minutes later Jack Thompson scored for the Indians.

Tue Blake tallied for the Reds halfway through the third period, only to have Paul Raymond tie it up again less than two minutes later. Blake made another and then Gus Bivens clinched the game for the Reds.

British Golfers Tied In Tourney

BRAMSHOT, Hampshire, April 2—Three British golfers were tied for the lead in the Daily Mail £2,000 tournament at the end of the second round.

Percy Alliss of Beaconsfield carded a 71 and a 70 for a 36-hole total of 141. Whitcomb of Packington, and James Adams of Romford with 69 and 72 each, were tied with Alliss.

Willie Lamb, Toronto pro, added a 70 to his 77 yesterday. His total of 153-10 left him in 4th place.

Behind the leading trio came Jack Bolton, member of the British Ryder Cup team, with 70-73—143, Bernard of West Cheshire with 69-74—143, and C. S. Denny of Thorpe Hall with 74-69—143.

Calgary Jimmies Lose Hoop Clash

CALGARY, April 2.— Calgary Jimmies who defeated Edmonton Comets for the Alberta intermediate "B" women's basketball championship, were beaten 38-22 here last night by Calgary Hi-Speeds, intermediate "A" provincial titleholders, in the first of a two-game total-point challenge series to ascertain which is the better club. The second encounter will be played next Wednesday.

Baby Arizmendi Takes Decision

CINCINNATI, April 2.— Baby Arizmendi, chunky little feather-weight from Mexico City, speared out a 10-round decision over Tiger Walker, local negro, in a fast bout last night. Walker carried the fight to Arizmendi but seldom inflicted any damage. He weighed in at 132½ pounds, Arizmendi 131½.

The first surprise of the National Hockey League play-offs was the victory of the New York Americans over the speedy Chicago Black Hawks in the semi-final series. A bit of scrambled action in front of the Americans' goal in their 3-0 victory is shown below, with Roy Worters far out of his cage, which isn't even in the picture. Dede Klein, with his knee is covering for the goalie. Worters succeeded in smothering the puck.

HEADY HURLER FINDS GADGET FOR DEAD ARM

ORLANDO, Fla., April 2.—Ed Linke, the pitcher without a pulse in his throwing arm, figures to be one of Washington's starting hurlers this season.

For more than a year Linke has had a "dead" arm. It went dead in 1934. Physicians are baffled by his case. The name for his ailment is "thrombosis of the subclavian artery of the right shoulder." There's little circulation in his right arm and hand. His fingers stiffen, particularly in cold days.

He won 11 and lost seven games last year. Most of his victories came late in the season when his arm responded to treatment—and then he copped eight straight decisions.

Team-mates on the bench rubbed his hand vigorously to maintain circulation. But this action kept his fingers tired and sore. So he has ordered a miniature hot water bag filled with a chemical that diffuses constant heat, to fit his hip pocket. He plans to keep his right hand warm between pitches and innings.

Cambridge Crew Afloat Until Dusk

PUTNEY-ON-THAMES, England, April 2.—Cambridge were afloat until after dusk as training for Saturday's rowing classic with Oxford reached its most intensive stage.

In their evening outing the light blues practiced three starts from the stake boat in company with the second eight. W. G. R. M. Laurie stroked No. 21 and 22, respectively, for the half minute of rowing in each start, and gained a few feet each time over the scratch crew.

Oxford previously had similarly taken three starts from the stake boat, getting in 10 strokes in a quarter-minute, and then 20 and 15 strokes, respectively, in half minutes.

On the first and alternate teams announced today were two Detroit and two Buffalo rear guardsmen, including goalie Alex Wood of the Bisons. Rochester Cardinals failed to place a man on either of the lineups:

Bulldogs Capture Close 2-1 Triumph Over Buffalo Bisons

WINDSOR, Ont., April 2—Windsor Bulldogs scored a 2-1 overtime victory over Buffalo Bisons in the first game of the International hockey league best-or-three semi-final playoff series here last night. Earl Robertson in goal was a star of the game.

The teams move to Niagara Falls for the second game tonight and if a third is necessary it will be played at the Falls, tem porarry home quarters of the Buffalo squad. The winner of the series meets Detroit Olympics for the league champ. ionship.

Don Smillie, who has played for Sir Stan ley Flyers and London Richmonds this season, was the hero of the Windsor triumph. Smillie ended the game by blasting a shot past goaler Alex Wood less than two minutes from the end of the first overtime period.

All the regulation time scoring was confined to the second period. Art Berlett shot the Bisons into a lead near the halfway mark. The goal was a signal for a determined Windsor offensive that finally broke through 49 seconds before the period ended. Aubrey Webster got the goal.

Herman Threatens To Quit Baseball

CORDELE, Ga., April 2—Floyd Caves Herman, "Babe" to baseball fans, threatened to quit baseball unless Cincinnati Reds offered him a more attractive contract.

In a spirited telephone conference with Manager Charles Dressen, Herman declared he would stay at his home in Glendale, Calif., unless his demands were met. Dressen countered by informing Herman that he would either join the Reds for 1936 or stay out of baseball.

Pats and Pans

By BILL LEWIS

LAKELAND, Fla., April 2.—Cleaning up some odds and ends gathered in the training camps:

Joe DiMaggio's first batting effort in a New York Yankee uniform was a screaming triple far over the head of Joe Medwick in left field for the St. Louis Cardinals. . . . The 21-year-old San Francisco Italian made four hits in all on his day out. . . . Few recruits have caught on so quickly. . . . Everybody already is predicting a bright major league career for the tall youngster who walks with a sloop. . . . DiMaggio has a beautiful stride and swings something like Rogers Hornsby, except that he does not stand far back in the box as does the Rajah. . . . DiMaggio stands up even with the plate.

Eddy O'Doul, a keen student of hitting, managed DiMaggio in San Francisco last season, and the youngster attributes his rare form to the teachings of the old National Leaguer. . . . "O'Doul taught me to get my weight on the hind leg, which enables me to get more power behind my hits," beams the personable DiMaggio. . . . Joe Cronin, manager of the Boston Red Sox and DiMaggio's neighbor in San Francisco, has been the boy's idol. . . . DiMaggio, who yet has not seen an American League city, likes to sit in the hotel lobby in St. Petersburg, and has a penchant for banana splits.

Dressen Ranks Cubs Fourth

Charley Dressen, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, is one of the few major league managers who can't see the Chicago Cubs with a spyglass. . . . Dressen picks the Cardinals, Giants, and Pirates to beat out the Bruins. . . . He believes any one of these three clubs would have bested Detroit in the 1935 world series. . . . Nashville has quit working with the Giants and now is associated with the rapidly growing system of the Cincinnati Reds. . . . Dressen went to the Reds from the Nashville club.

Toronto rumors have that Harvey "Busher" Jackson, left winger on the original Maple Leaf's kid line, will be traded before another N.H.L. season rolls around and that Boston will be his next stopping place. Brains are reported offering Aubrey "Dit" Clapper, crack right-winger, for Jackson, who has had a poor season with the Leafs.

PARIS.—The Paris Soir, French newspaper, is planning to conduct a heavyweight and light-heavyweight fight tournament somewhat similar to that being promoted by Jack Dempsey in the United States in search of a white hope.

Winners of the Paris tourney, which will bring together several hundred battlers from all over Europe, are expected to meet victors of Dempsey's carnival in New York.

Jimmy McLarnin Chosen Leading Canadian Mit Star

YPSILANTI, Mich., April 2—Canada's four leading mitmen—Jimmy McLarnin, Lou Brouillard, Al McCoy and Frankie Battaglia—rated high today in the quarterly rankings of the National Boxing Association.

Brouillard, native of St. Eugene, Que., was named the leading contender for Babe Risko's middleweight crown. It was doubtful, however, that he could turn the former Pittsburgh flash before he could him he has a calloused condition of the left arm—an ailment that has ended many ring careers.

McLarnin, Vancouver's former ruler of the welters, was placed third in the light division, the man who dethroned him. Black Barney Ross of Chicago, and Jackie Carroll, an Australian recently matched with Ross.

Fort Hockey Vet To Retire

CALGARY, April 2.—"Jazzy" Manahan, veteran forward and captain of the Fort William Wanderers who lost out to Toronto Dynamiters in the western finals of the Allan cup, is en route to the head of the lakes and retirement from active hockey.

"You can tell the world that I intend to lay my skates away for keep," Manahan said as he boarded a train for the east. "I have had all the hockey I care to intend to. I retire. If I should take an interest in the game it will be as a coach."

British Racquets

LONDON, April 2.—Akers-Douglas, three times champion, eliminated Clarence Pell of New York in the third round of the British racquets championship. The scores were 15-3, 15-9, 13-6.

PLANS INDEFINITE

Little's competitive plans, beyond his intention to seek the United States open championship at Baltusrol, this June, are indefinite. He hopes to go to England, late in June, for the British open.

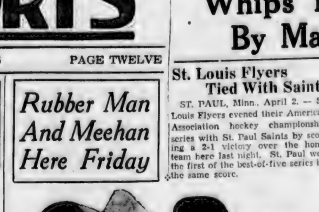

Jones, although serving as titular head of the new venture, will furnish only his advice and counsel. Little's touring partners this spring and summer probably will include Jimmy Thomson, the long-hitting Californian, and Horton Smith.

Little's departure from amateur ranks is a blow to America's Walker Cup prospects this year. The Californian was slated to captain the team which defends the trophy against the British in September at Pine Valley, N. J.

Granite Curling

Ice will be available at Granite Curling club for any men who wish to play scratch games. All draws have been completed for the season but reservations for pick-up encounters can be made by phoning 31284.

Rubber Man And Meehan Here Friday

Shown above, all tangled up in his own legs, is "Beanpole" Larry, the "freak wrestler", who will oppose Pat Meehan here Friday night in the main event of Mike Cutcher's card at the Empire theatre. The "Beanpole", famed for the flexibility of his legs, is highly rated along the Pacific coast and should be a better match for Pat than any heavyweight previously brought here. Meyers and Hager will appear on the other headline, while "Frenchy" La Rue of Calgary and Ed. Roux of Edmonton will tangle in the prelim.

Lawson Little Announces Signing As Professional

Amateur Golf Champion Decides Suddenly To Join Pro Ranks

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 2.— W Lawson Little, Jr., world amateur golf champion for the past two years, last night announced he has turned professional.

Relinquishing his amateur status in a sudden decision made on the eve of his participation here as the third annual Augusta national invitation tournament, the San Francisco "Sloge Gun" joined Robert T. Jones, Jr., former world champion, in a golf promotion venture sponsored by a leading sporting goods firm. (A. G. Spalding & Brothers.)

Lawson Little

As outlined by Jones and Little, the proposition involved a country-wide "educational program," including demonstrations, exhibitions and general golf promotion. It is understood Little will sign contracts involving a return of at least $10,000 to him, for the first year, apart from whatever he may make in open competition.

Little's departure from simonpure ranks is effective at once. He will stay as a professional in the $5,000 national invitation tournament, which was scheduled to start here today with Bob Jones as co-favorite and Henry Picard, Hershey, Penn., professional star, at 8 to 1. Little was quoted at 15 to 1.

MAT MAULERS WILL OPEN UP ON NEXT CARD

Muscle-mauling wrestlers will "open up" in their future bouts as fast and nassle as they do across the line, or so believed Maestro Mike Cutcher, following a confab with the ring governors the other day.

And with that announcement things are looking brighter for the wrestling fan who likes his hated performers tossed into the orchestra pit, batted over the head with a chair, or possibly brow-beaten no end.

Some of "Irish" Mike's shows have run off a little tame of late, but, starting Friday, there will be pepper and spice a-plenty for the fan who wishes his matmen literally torn apart.

Also, stated Michael, there will be a seattle royal—new to Edmonton—but even those sturdy wrestling toots state this little rasterous stunt is really a thriller. Somehow or other five of these sturdy men are herded together into the squared battle ground, and then, well, they just slap each other down until only two are left upon their feet. Then this pair have a joust. They go for about six or eight three-minute rounds, and the one who wins that is, and deservedly so, the winner of the "wrestle royal."

Some fun, eh, keed!

But for Friday Promoter Cutcher has a good card. It will feature Eddie "Tough Guy" Meyers with the "dapper young fella" known as Two Ton Hager. Then there is "Beanpole" Larry, the rubber man who can be twisted into many knots, and Meehan, our rugged policeman, will do the twisting. In the prelim a couple of tough French lads will tangle with "Frenchy" LaRue, or Calgary's Ed Roux, local hair-dressing artist—and a good wrestler.

Maurice "drag-'em-out" De-Blicek will boss the show.

Wilmer Allison Tennis Captain

HOUSTON, Texas, April 2.—Wilmer Allison of Austin, top ranking tennis player of the United States in 1935, was named captain of the Davis cup team for the United States-Mexico matches here April 10-12.

Allison received his appointment from Walter Page of New York, chosen non-playing captain but unable to come to Houston because of illness.

Allison said the team would consist of Donald Budge of Oakland, Calif., Bryan Grant of Atlanta, John Van Ryn of Philadelphia and himself. Allison and Van Ryn will be the doubles combination.

Snooker Series

In the final of the English amateur billiards championship at Burrough's hall, J. Thompson of Cumberland defeated J. H. Beetham, Derbyshire, 3,179 point to 3,149.

Speedy Falcon Six Whips Brockville By Margin Of 5-0

Sudbury's 5 to 0 Triumph Ties Up Final Series In East — Play Third Game On Saturday.

TORONTO, April 2.—Sudbury Falcons, flashing dazzling speed, pierced the defensive armor of Brockville Magedomas for a 5-0 shutout here last night in the second game of their best-of three series for the eastern Canada senior hockey championship. The victory evened the series at one win each and forced a third game here Saturday afternoon.

Brockville won the opening game in Ottawa Monday 5-4 but were easily outclassed by the O.H.A. representatives last night. Brockville had few close in chances in comparison with Falcons and when they did reach the barrier, bald headed Joe Ironstone, former professional player with Ottawa Senators, was equal to the occasion.

The red shirted northerns tallied twice in each of the first two periods and were held to one in the last when Magedomas made a gallant effort to beat Ironstone.

Besides the northern netminder another former Ottawa player had a big part in the win, Charlie Marshall tallying two of his team's goals. Tony Graboski, brother of the one eyed Jo-Jo of the Brockville team, scored one and Hal Cooper and Art Stuart completed the scoring.

CHINA MILLIONS NOT INCREASING

NANKING, April 2 — War famine and what insurance policies call "acts of God," within 60 years have taken the lives of as many Chinese as are alive today.

The occurrence of these calamities, according to government population experts, accounts for the apparent standstill in the population of China since 1842, when the estimated total stood at 400,000,000, approximately what it is today.

For with a natural annual increase of 10.7 per 1,000, the population of China would double in six decades if flood, pestilence, war and drought could be prevented.

Old Blacksmith Shop Vanishing Before Engines

REGINA, April 2.—The village "smithy" has become almost a thing of the past in Western Canada, and its place is being usurped by the modern shop equipped with electric welding machines and other devices largely devoted to repairs in the automotive trade, according to members of the Saskatchewar Association of Blacksmiths, in annual convention here.

Exponents of the hammer and anvil state horseshoeing is an art that is rapidly being lost with the coming of the gasoline engine. Very few farm horses are now being shod.

Despite the passing of the smithy with its forge, anvil, and familiar showers of sparks, the "knights of the anvil" still retain their skill in the oldest of crafts. They have on display here a first-class collection of the blacksmith's art.

The modern blacksmith plies his trade by pressing buttons, throwing switches, and turning valves, say the "smithies".

The convention elected J. O'Malley, Harris, Sask., president of the organization, and J. Stoor, Saskatoon, vice-president.

The St. Louis Cardinals are turning the Wild Horse of the Osage, Pepper Martin, loose in green pastures this year, and the old Pepper Pot's presence in the outfield is expected to build up the garden section's punch, at the plate. Martin, after playing third base for years, will team up with Joe Medwick and Terry Moore in the outer defence. He is shown here in an unusual training camp pose.

JOHANNESBURG, April 2 — A native was sentenced to five months' imprisonment recently for bigamy despite the fact he married the second wife with the consent of his first spouse and thought he was doing no wrong under South African law.

HI-School HI-Lights ON SPORT

By BRUCE MACDONALD

Good old Sunny Alberta—the first of April and still the schools are playing hockey!

Four weeks ago the senior puck chasers ended their series and considered themselves mighty lucky to get through. A week later the juniors decided to stage a last moment playdown for their championship. Their games were played, South Side Commercial copped the title, and as a result the Bantam league is going to follow the leader and start their circuit again on Thursday afternoon.

Separate and Eastwood will be the first two squads to clash. The winner will play Scona High on Friday and the winner of that game will meet Technical for the championship.

If the Scona Bantams come through with a win—which is quite possible—it will mean that all three South Side schools will have championships. Maybe the league-leading Technical crew will have something to say about this though.

And while we are on the subject: Garneau's senior squad is trying to make arrangements to play the Calgary champions some time during the Easter holidays. They have already had an offer to play Wetaskiwin but they were forced to refuse—it was too near the Easter exams.

No definite word from the boxers has been received yet, but it is presumed that at least a few of them will be taking the trip to Red Deer. If they do, they certainly should bring home their share of the bacon.

Anyone who doubts the ability of these High School punch-swappers only had to see Mr. Kirkwood's Technical squad in action at the provincial eliminations a week ago. Only one of his four boys lost. Lipsett gained a decision, Janiten won on a K.O. and Frechette trimmed his man after putting up one of the staunchest fights I ever hope to see.

A new suggestion which comes to us from Saskatchewan has met the approval of all the High School football players.

In Saskatchewan they weren't able to finish their rugby league last year so they are going to play as soon as they can this spring. Spring football would certainly be a popular innovation, but we don't stand a chance of getting it.

The reason being that all these have to be voted upon by the principals of the various High Schools. The majority of these men are opposed to spring sports—some of them are opposed to any kind of sports. And the result is that year by year the schools get less encouragement in their athletics.

It seems tough that just at the time when most educational institutions all over the world are beginning to realize the value of P.T. and athletics Edmonton should be moving farther and farther into the back seat.

The DeWitt Clinton high school for boys in New York is the largest high school in America. It has an enrollment of more than 10,000.

Elmwood, Wesleys Meet In Winnipeg Western Playoffs

Setback Leaves Marks On Leafs—Now Only Even On Odds

TORONTO, April 2.—Battered and bruised, Toronto Maple Leafs came home yesterday to an anxious city that saw visions of elimination from the Stanley cup chase by the National hockey league's biggest surprise team—New York Americans.

Leafs and Americans will tangle here tonight in the third game of the Stanley cup semi-final and that was surprising to Toronto's hockey populace. They hadn't figured on the Amerks stopping the Toronto powerhouse or even forcing the series to the limit.

But the Americans did, by 1-0 in New York last night after taking a 3-1 pasting in the first game, and were so impressive Leafs weren't much better than even money in the betting circles today.

The bruising work of the New York defence, mainly by Al Murray and Joe Jerwa, left its mark on the Leaf lineup. Rube Bannister, the club's masseur, took most of the team under his care.

Art Jackson had a sore ankle and was limping badly. Bob Davidson was suffering with a torn leg ligament. Bannister promised to have both ready for the crucial game.

At New York, Eddie Shore, captain and all-star defenceman of Boston Bruins, who saw last night's game tossed in words of encouragement for the Americans:

"You fellows played a great game. You won fully on the merits of your play. What I can't understand is all this talk of how Toronto was prevented from scoring in the last period. Worters played one of the best games I have ever seen any goalkeeper play, that is true, but isn't it also true that Schriner, Oliver, Carr and some of the others should have rung up goals on those frequent breakaways? To my way of thinking the score might easily have been 5-0 if you fellows had clicked on those breaks."

Coach Rosie Helmer, who leaves after the Thursday night game for Winnipeg to scout the Allan cup final there, left no doubt he thought his club had at least a 50-50 chance and that "regardless of what type of game either team plays."

Amerks Overjoyed With Last Victory

NEW YORK, April 2.—With four fighting words and a song in his heart, Red Dutton prepared today to take his scrappy New York Americans out of Manhattan to meet Toronto Maple Leafs in the saw-off game of their Stanley Cup semi-final series.

"Keep punching—and hard."

That is the motto of the fightingest team Manhattan has seen in years. It's the Dutton system on and off the ice. He uses it building roads in rural Manitoba and hockey teams in Gotham.

Tuesday night it carried the Americans to a 1-0 win over the Leafs in their second semi-final cup meeting. There was something significant about the motto, chalked on the wall of the Americans dressing room. It seemed to symbolize the spirit of every star-spangled player.

Little Roy Worters, the day-in-day-out goalie of the National Hockey League, smiled and wrinkled his forehead. "I guess I was right at that," said the little netman. "Only yesterday I said I appeared to be just getting into good shape. Tonight was my night all right."

There was handshaking and backslapping for everyone, but to Worters went credit for the win, even though curly-headed Joe Jerwa did score the lone goal. Without Worters one goal would not have been enough to halt the Leafs in the third period.

Dutton at first was almost speechless with joy. "You saw them. You saw them," he shouted as well-wishers poured in. "If they can play like that in Toronto——" The sentence was better unfinished. He lauded Worters, posing for pictures with the little goalie, hugging him affectionately.

And, before Leafs started for their own stamping grounds, where, they affirmed, they would "take" the Amerks, they too paid tribute to Red's fighting team.

"They're good, don't ever forget that," said Red Horner. "That's the fifth time they've beaten us down here but we're still optimistic."

Managing Director Connie Smythe also handed Dutton's team praise.

"I never saw anything like Worters in that third period," Smythe declared. "He was wonderful."

Both Junior Finalists Hope To Cop Title—Wesleys Are In Form

WINNIPEG, April 2—The stage was set today for the Western Canada junior hockey final. Elmwood Maple Leafs, Manitoba champions, oppose Saskatoon Wesleys, Saskatchewan titlists tonight in the first of a best-of-three game series to decide the holder of the Abbott cup and the right to meet the eastern titlists in the Memorial cup final.

Wesleys, who eliminated Trail Tigers in the semi-final round almost two weeks ago, have been put through some strenuous training in Winnipeg by their manager, Hobb Wilson. Wilson reports his cohorts in fine fettle and hopes to capture the western final they lost last year to Winnipeg Monarchs who went on to win the Canadian championship.

Elmwood, who came through a strenuous playoff tilt with Fort William Kams, will provide a formidable aggregation with Bill Fraser in goal, Art Derrick and Tommy Kendall, defence; Steve Latoski, centre; Wilf Mattson, left wing and Tommy Cooper, right wing, with the alternates being Len Schreiber, Bud Craig, Denny Robinson and Norm Smith.

GIRL RESCUES HOTEL GUESTS

ESTEVAN, Sask., April 2—Risking her life to save guests from a fire in a hotel where she worked, Miss Annie Dickonson is Estevan's latest heroine. The girl, awakened by dense clouds of smoke in her room, fought her way along the corridors and warned all occupants before being overcome by the fumes.

The unconscious girl was later carried from the blazing building by firemen. The part she played in averting a tragedy was not discovered until guests and hotel employees compared notes and found Miss Dickonson's action had undoubtedly saved their lives.

B.C.'s Famous Trees Featured At Jubilee

VANCOUVER, April 2.—An exhibit of great logs from various trees that have made British Columbia's forests famous has been offered as the British Columbia Loggers' Association contribution to the Golden Jubilee celebrations.

The exhibit will be placed near the entrance to Stanley Park and will be of a permanent nature.

It will be a huge pile with inscriptions describing the various woods and their uses.

Mice Cause Panic At Police Meeting

MURRAYVILLE, B.C., April 2.—Practical jokers put up a sign in a Vancouver school offering good prices for cats delivered to the city hall for use in cleaning out rodents from relief camps, but they would do well to send them to the Langley Municipal Hall here.

As police commissioners met in the hall, Chief R. Macklin suddenly became excited and grabbed his knee. His fellow commissioners wondered what was wrong until they saw a mouse emerge from the leg of his trousers and scamper across the floor. Then another mouse ran across the feet of one of the members and the meeting proceeded with feet raised to chairs or tables.

A few weeks previous staff members were forced to vacate the building when a skunk became trapped in the ventilator.

Youthful Moriarty Promising Bat Artist

Little Sting Now Present In Mound Staff—Maybe!

By HARRY GRAYSON

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., April 2.—Perhaps the most interesting member of the Boston Bees is Edward Joseph Moriarty.

After creating a mild sensation in his bow with the old Braves last June, Mority quit after 10 days, intent upon studying for the priesthood. He went to Montreal to make arrangements to enter the seminary, but changed his mind and spent the remainder of the summer as a playground instructor in Holyoke, which is his home.

A PROBLEM CHILD

Here he is at Waterfront Park—a problem child. The question is what to do with him, for after you discuss batting there isn't too much that can be said about Edward Joseph in a baseball way.

On his showing against professional competition to date, Moriarty, a 5-foot 10½-inch 180-pounder with the forearms of a Jim Jeffries, looks like one of the greatest natural hitters ever to break into the game.

A player with his power has to be pretty bad in the field to be kept out of the lineup, and he now is being given a whirl in right field.

HOLY CROSS PRODUCT

Moriarty is a product of Holy Cross, which gave professional baseball a long list of stalwarts, from Andy Coakley and Bill Carrigan on down the line. He just missed a .500 average in four years of the college game.

When the Boston Red Sox visited Worcester for an exhibition game with Holy Cross last April, Eddie nicked Bob Grove for the longest home run ever made off that renowned southpaw.

Morarity made his debut with the Braves in a double-header against the Chicago Cubs. He made seven hits in the two contests, including a home run and a pair of doubles. The young Irishman compiled an average of .324 in his brief whirl with the Braves.

Moriarty was the captain and second baseman of the Holy Cross varsity, but is too slow to play second. He also has trouble in going back for a ball, but Manager Bill McKechnie hopes to polish his fielding sufficiently to keep him in right. McKechnie wouldn't have a pleasant afternoon all season with all that power in the dugout.

SOME FELLA

The sharp eyes of Moriarty, a right-handed hitter and thrower, are deeply set and he has high cheekbones. Indeed, he says that he can see his own cheekbones without the benefit of a looking glass.

Moriarty was graduated from Holy Cross the second highest man in his class. He reads Latin between games and drills, but declares that he definitely has decided upon baseball as a career.

Only the illustrious Hank Gowdy, a coach, remains to bring memories of the glorious drive of the 1914 Braves, since Rabbit Maranville left.

Old J. A. Robert Quinn, fronting for the real owner of the outfit, Charles Francis Adams, swapped or shipped a dozen or more athletes in an effort to put the club that collapsed with Babe Ruth back on its feet.

The Braves established a new modern record for games lost by dropping 115 decisions in 1935. They won only 38.

NOT BERGER'S FAULT

This, however, wasn't the fault of Walter Berger, centerfielder and star of the Bees. Berger led the loop in runs batted in with 130, and in home runs with 34.

Berger will be flanked by Harold Lee in left, and Gene Moore or Moriarty in right. Lee led the Brave regulars in hitting with .303 last season. Moore, a refugee from the St. Louis Cardinal chain gang, is up from Rochester via Brooklyn.

Rupert Thompson and Johnny Tyler, who hit well after being brought in from Harrisburg for the last month of 1935, are other retrievers.

With Fred Frankhouse and Ed. Brandt traded to Brooklyn, and Huck Betts gone to St. Paul, pitching is the most serious Bee problem.

Much Hustle And Bustle For Hive Men

Al Lopez May Have Big Year Back of Plate, Says McKechnie

LOPEZ DUE TO STAR

The veteran Bob Smith may help out in the spring, and Bobby Reis, the jack-of-all-trades obtained from Brooklyn, believes he can win on the mound.

Hopeful of lending helping hands are John Lanning, who won 15 for the last-place Knoxville brigade; Albert Blanche, a Providence College product; Jim McCloskey, a southpaw from Wilkes-Barre; and Gerald Veach, a 19-year-old southpaw from Paducah of the Kitty League.

Al Lopez' record indicates that the ex-Brooklyn catcher has one big campaign in three. Quinn and McKechnie trust this is to be one of them—his last was in 1933.

Bill Lewis and Ray Mueller will assist the Castilian.

Anthony Cuccinello, from Brooklyn, will be the only new face in the Bees' infield. Baxter Jordan will look after first base, Bald Billy Urbanski will be the shortstop, with Pinkey Whitney at third. Joe Coscarart and Butch Meyers, an accomplished infielder from Buffalo, will be the extra men.

MAC PROFESSES

McKechnie professes to believe that it is an open battle for fifth place, with the Dodgers, Phillies, and Reds forming the opposition in his drive for that objective.

The Bees do not appear too formidable either on paper or on the field, but McKechnie has a way of taking mediocre arrays a long way. And there is no Ruth present this trip to interfere with discipline.

LAW REQUIRES ISOLATION FOR MILD DISEASE

Referring Thursday to the loss of school time resulting from scholars being isolated for communicable diseases, particularly German measles, R. R. Jenkins, medical health officer, said he regretted this fact but that his department was forced to "abide by the law as it exists".

Correcting a recent statement by a high school principal that students were kept away from school for two weeks if they were suffering from German measles, a mild disease, Dr. Jenkins said the period of isolation was ten days.

"We are doing as much as possible to reduce the annoyance in this connection to a minimum," the health official said.

THE FIRST AMERICAN COLONISTS DID NOT COME ON THE MAYFLOWER

Although the Mayflower is beloved in the memory of all Americans, the truth is that it was not the ship that brought the first load of American settlers. The first ship was the Susan Constant, which landed a load of English settlers on the coast of Virginia at Jamestown about twelve years before the Mayflower landed there.

NEW YORK, April 2.—Judge Cornelius F. Collins today denied a defence motion in the murder trial of Vera Stretz, 32-year-old nursing aid, charged with the first degree murder charge against her.

TRAMS SLOWED ON BAD TRACK

Rehabilitation of street railway trackage in various parts of the city will be undertaken this year to improve the road-bed and also to eliminate as much as possible "noisy tracks" resulting from rail corrugation.

The street railway department has received a request from a downtown hotel that cars be slowed down while passing over rough trackage in the vicinity of the hotel. The city is co-operating by slowing down the cars for the short stretch in question during the early morning and late evening hours thereby minimizing any discomfort from noise.

Probably the lowest automobile speed limit in the world is in effect in Hungary, where motorists are required to slow down to four miles an hour when turning corners.

BALDWIN SAYS WOMEN ALWAYS KEEP SECRETS

By THOMAS T. CHAMPION
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, April 2—Prime Minister Baldwin said Wednesday the only person of a leakage of information in the civil service due to a woman.

"Many women in the civil service are able in the course of their daily work to amass secret information," he said when a plan to enlarge the famous Newnham College for Women at Cambridge was launched at No. 10 Downing street.

"I have never known a leakage due to a woman, but I have known leakages through men who should have known a great deal better," the prime minister added.

Newnham College was founded in 1875. Its principal is Miss J. P. Strachey.

Two Killed When Airplane Crashes

BUFFALO, N.Y., April 2. — Two men perished Wednesday in a flaming tri-motored airplane which crashed from snow-laden skies to a farm field near Pavilion, south-west of Batavia. They were identified as Pilot Sanford L. Underwood of Buffalo, a veteran flier, and Harold A. Garrett of Newark, assistant flight superintendent of American Airways Inc. They were the only passengers.

SHOWDOWN IS DECLARED IN LOAN CASE

Socred Members At Ottawa Comment On the Situation

By THOS. WAYLING
Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

OTTAWA, April 2—"Its a showdown and Alberta has to see it through," commented E. J. Poole, Social Credit, today in referring to the failure of negotiations between Premier Aberhart and minister of finance Dunning for the refunding of Alberta's bonds.

"Mr. Dunning seems to be digging himself in for a long siege although he did not have much faith in the system he is upholding," said Mr. Poole. "He recognizes the necessity for the provinces borrowing at future dates, but not Alberta which has defaulted but the Dominion government."

John Blackmore, Social Credit leader in the Commons, said: "Mr. Aberhart thinks that if Alberta subscribes to the loan council her chances of putting in Social Credit will be greatly impaired if not destroyed. His justification for this conclusion might easily be drawn from Douglas's repeated warning that he was not to accept the loan council. Mr. Dunning believes, naturally quite honestly, that the best interests of Alberta's economic future will be safeguarded by the loan council.

"Both men are honest in their views but they disagree. Upon Mr. Aberhart however rests the direct responsibility for Alberta. He intends to discharge that responsibility. There is no intention to make any bondholder lose any money whatever. Manifestly the bondholders' money would not be safe unless Alberta safeguards her economic well being. Mr. Aberhart's whole aim is to safeguard the province's economic future."

SALES TAX TO BE EFFECTIVE OF MAY 1 NEXT

Definite Provisions Laid Down—Far-Reaching Measure

The new provincial sales tax, by which the province hopes and expects to increase annual revenue by $2,000,000 will come into effect on May 1, it was learned on reliable authority on Thursday.

There are two bills to the proposed sales tax which have the same ultimate effect.

The first bill is to impose taxes on the ultimate purchasers of specified commodities and the alternate is to impose a two per cent. sales tax, but is dependent upon necessary and proposed amendments to the B.N.A. Act being carried through.

From present indications the government intends to bring into operation the first act to impose taxes on the ultimate purchasers of certain commodities as there is no question of the province's powers to impose this taxation.

FUTURE ACTION

It is thought in well-informed circles that the province might keep this Act in operation for a year in order to take advantage of experience gained, even if Dominion authority is given to bring the alternate Act into operation, under amendments to the B. N. A. Act.

Steps will be taken immediately to organize under the provincial treasurer's department, machinery to handle sales tax administration.

Under terms of this Act, the tax is to be collected from each purchaser by the vendor and turned over to the provincial treasurer.

Articles coming under this tax are listed in the bill, as follows:—bread, milk, coal, gas, water, newspapers, books, farm machinery and repairs thereto, binder twine, electricity, agricultural products produced within the province when sold by the producer, fuel oil within the meaning of the Fuel Oil Tax Act, liquor within the meaning of the Liquor Control Act, money or things in action or the evidence thereof, and any other commodities which may be declared by the lieutenant-governor-in-council to be commodities to which the Act does not apply.

It is also stated that "after May 1, 1936, every person who purchases a commodity by retail for his own use, shall pay at the time of making a purchase a tax of two per cent of the price of the commodity purchased."

TAX COMPUTATION

It is also provided that the tax is to be computed on the price payable in respect of each separate purchase by retail.

In cases where several commodities are purchased on the same occasion and as part of the same transaction by the same purchaser, the tax shall be payable on the aggregate price of commodities so purchased.

When the price amounts to or includes a fraction of a dollar, any fraction of a dollar which does not exceed 50 cents, shall be treated as computed at 50 cents and every fraction which exceeds 50 cents and does not exceed $1 shall be treated and computed as $1 and added to another section of the act.

Provision is made for a refund may be given by the minister when it is shown to him that the commodities were purchased for purposes of resale and not for use of the purchaser.

Vendors are required, on or before the 15th day of each month, to forward to the minister, the amount of tax which he has collected in the preceding month and provision is made for payment of a commission on the collections.

DESCRIBES VENDOR

Under terms of the Act a vendor is any person who, in this province sells in the course of his business or of continuous or successive acts any commodity to a purchaser thereof for any other than the resale thereof. A commodity is considered as resale when it is one of those which are the subject matter of sale by resale within the province outside of the limits of the state exemptions.

It is provided that the Minister may appoint a person to hold an inquiry into any charge or complaint that a purchaser has evaded payment of a tax or that any vendor has failed to pay the tax.

The accused bears the onus of failing to pay, collect or forward the tax.

Provision is made that a vendor who fails to keep records or defaults on making returns, shall be guilty of an offence and liable to a fine of not $25 for each day of default. In addition to other penalties, a maximum fine of $500 and costs or in default, three months imprisonment may be imposed under the Act.

MUST REGISTER

The Act gives power to the government to require all persons who make sales by retail, to register and to prescribe the manner of registration.

The government also may declare that the Act shall not apply to retail sales in any specified area or areas of the province which are adjacent to the boundary of the province. The government also may exempt any commodities from liability to taxation under the Act. The government also may prescribe the forms to be kept and returns to be made by any person authorized to receive or collect the taxes from a vendor.

The Retail Sales Act is somewhat similar in many respects to the Ultimate Purchasers' Tax Act. Exemptions are practically the same and it is provided that the tax shall be paid by the retailer not later than the 10th day of each month in respect to sales of commodities the preceding month. Penalties are similar.

ABERHART ACTION PROMPTS DUNNING TO REFUSE FUNDS

DATA ON LOAN NEGOTIATIONS MADE PUBLIC

to be met, we will be in a position to finance our share of the direct relief estimated.

"Taking the budget as a whole, every effort has been put forth by this government to meet its difficult financial situation and if our expectations are realized, we should not be obliged later on to approach your government or to raise funds in any other manner to meet the expenditures of unemployment relief, as this government has done in past years."

ASKED MORE DETAIL

"I sincerely trust that you will see your way clear to assist us in this matter and would appreciate more detail, in which event I will arrange to be in Ottawa a few days before the end of this month. It would of course be a convenience if arrangements could be made by wire, as our legislature is in session and as you know the treasurer is at the beck and call of all and sundry."

In reply Mr. Dunning wired on March 19:

"Your letter requesting Dominion loan to assist you in meeting April first maturity reached me simultaneously with Premier's newspaper announcement that province was about to introduce legislation reducing interest rates on outstanding debt, apparently without reference to proposed loan council arrangement. Announcement has already had serious adverse effect on market particularly for western provincial bonds and proposal if carried out would nullify all efforts already made and proposed to be made by Dominion to protect credit of the provinces and the Dominion as a whole. In view of action contemplated by province I do not see how I could justify to parliament and the country the loan for which you are now asking."

Two days later Mr. Dunning sent the following telegram to Premier Aberhart:

AUTHORITY EXPIRES

"As you know authority to make loans or give guarantees to provinces will expire March 31. It is not the intention to ask parliament for authority to give assistance in future in respect of maturing obligations or for general provincial purposes. Proposed constitutional amendment implies virtually unanimous approval of provinces. As objections have been raised by some provinces and as difficulties may arise in connection with early maturities we wish the provinces particularly interested to be fully cognizant of Dominion's attitude and future policy. Believe matter sufficiently important for conference with premiers or provincial treasurers of four western provinces. Would it be possible for you to attend such a conference to be held next week?"

This telegram was also sent to Premier Patterson of Saskatchewan, Premier Bracken of Manitoba and Premier Pattullo of British Columbia.

On March 20 Premier Aberhart wired Mr. Dunning:

"Impossible financially to meet our obligation April 1. Alberta legislature will not complete its session until next week. Urge that arrangements be made by federal government for this maturity and will confer at your convenience afterwards."

Mr. Dunning replied on the same day:

"Your wire today's date. For past five months Dominion has been making utmost effort to work out with provinces solution for financial difficulties of certain provinces. At dominion-provincial conference and subsequent meetings of financial committee it was made abundantly clear that the Dominion cannot consider making further loans for the purpose of meeting provincial maturities and cannot possibly consent to any plan which removes from Dominion parliament absolute control at all times of extent to which Dominion guarantees or loans shall be given.

EVOLVED PLAN

"In these conferences we evolved a plan whereby provinces finding it impossible to meet existing obligations could obtain privilege of Dominion guarantee for refunding and new borrowing under a loan council arrangement. With unanimous consent of representatives of all provinces Dominion undertook to initiate steps to secure necessary enabling powers, and after submitting proposed draft to all provinces requisite legislation has now been introduced in parliament.

"In January we agreed to assist you in meeting a provincial maturity because we felt that you had not had sufficient time to consider fully the nature of the proposed arrangement. As over two months have since elapsed that reason no longer applies. It is unreasonable to assume that with a maturity coming on April 1 the Alberta government has not been giving careful consideration to the problem thereby created. Yet apart from various newspaper statements reported to have been made by you we have not been made aware of your attitude to the proposed loan council arrangement under which Dominion guarantee would be available to the province.

"It may be that the views of the Dominion and Alberta cannot be reconciled but my telegram of yesterday was intended to invite a final effort to avert serious impairment of the credit of Alberta and other western provinces which default on your impending maturity would inevitably cause. Regret impossible for me to suggest any other course."

HON. C. A. DUNNING, minister of finance, who declared in an interview Wednesday that if Premier Aberhart could present a constructive suggestion to which the Dominion can subscribe, most sympathetic consideration would be given.

Premier Aberhart's wire in reply was dated March 21:

"Quite appreciate sincerity of statements in your wire. Replying categorically: Agree Dominion has made utmost effort for last five months. Dominion parliament certainly has right to absolute control of extent of guarantees and loans to provinces.

ALBERTA WAS FIRST

"Agree conferences discussed plan regarding refunding existing obligations with Dominion guarantee. In this regard Alberta was the first to agree to earmark certain revenues against interest upon refunded debt in accordance with federal bill drafted March 4th, section three, subsection one, clause A, B, C.

"Appreciate your assistance in meeting January maturity. Reference lapse two months we have given consideration during this period but obviously impossible to arrive at definite conclusion for reason tax section not prepared bill that Parliament of Canada has not defined the terms and conditions to be prescribed by it. We are not evading this point but no matter what the requirements might be you could hardly expect advanced definite commitment by any legislation on undetermined details. Failure to advise regarding loan council is explained in preceding paragraph.

DOING ALL POSSIBLE

"We sincerely hope that the views of Alberta and the Dominion can be reconciled. We appreciate your invitation and would have gladly accepted but introduction of taxation bills and other important acts incident to our budget made it imperative for provincial treasurer and self to remain here until close of session. As evidenced by her budget Alberta is doing everything possible to meet her obligations with credit which will cease to be a financial burden on the Dominion. Trust you and your colleagues will give immediate and most serious consideration to the drafting of the important provisions of the loan council which will insure approval by our legislature."

On March 23 the Dominion finance minister wired Mr. Aberhart:

"Your Saturday's wire. Am glad that you appreciate efforts made by Dominion during past five months to meet financial difficulties of certain provinces and also Dominion's right to absolute control of extent of guarantees and loans to provinces. I do not understand your statement that Dominion has not defined the terms and conditions to be prescribed by it under loan council arrangement. In meetings of committee on financial questions in which your provincial treasurer took part, these terms and conditions were fully considered and the minutes of the committee sent to all provinces described them in all essential detail. Moreover, the draft of the B. N. A. Act amendment bill which you have seen covers fully in legal form nature of the security to be given by province for Dominion's security.

"The only points that remain to be covered in legal phraseology are the constitution and powers of the individual loan councils, but the minutes referred to above should leave no doubt about these points. In brief, a council consisting of representative named by the province and the Dominion minister of finance, with the Bank of Canada governor acting as technical adviser, will have power to approve any program for refunding existing provincial debt and any future borrowing by province before Dominion guarantee will be given. This is the sum and substance of the matter and I cannot conceive that there could be any controversy over details. Am glad to note that you hope the views of Alberta and Dominion can be reconciled but only a week remains for such reconciliation and, as stated in my previous wire, I would be glad if conference this week was to enable such reconciliation to be made in sufficient time."

FURTHER TELEGRAM

A further telegram was sent by Mr. Dunning to the Alberta premier on the same day:

"The Dominion government today were strongly of the view that it would not be advisable to go forward with consideration of settlement bill resolution for which is now on the order paper if any of the provinces object to its being proceeded with. Would you therefore please advise me at earliest possible moment whether you object to our proceeding further with the legislation designed to implement decisions of the committee on financial questions and to make it possible for any province desiring to participate in loan council arrangement to obtain Dominion guarantee for refunding purposes."

Premier Aberhart wired Mr. Dunning on March 25:

DRAFTING LEGISLATION

"Your wire 23rd. Reference minutes provincial treasurers meetings—under conditions outlined is not applicable to assistance by Dominion which does not extend to entire funded indebtedness of province. Only refer to this in substantiation of position we took in our Saturday's wire. We have revised our complete situation and taking everything into consideration we are drafting legislation along following lines in which we hope you will concur and co-operate.

"We have in mind fixing an early date for the maturity of outstanding bonds bearing interest at five, five and half and six per cent and issuing approximately $67,000,000 provincial perpetual stock interest three per cent for purpose of retiring in cash or by exchange equal amount of mentioned bonds and also including all of the maturities for five or six years so that we would have no early maturities to provide for. It is not our intention to include presently outstanding Alberta government stock. We would, however, include all our savings certificates. To insure due payment of interest on stock our Dominion subsidies would be charged with the payment of the interest. This plan means that the Dominion would incur no liability for the principal and would be fully protected for interest by the hypothecation of subsidies. The saving resulting from the above, plus sinking fund included in our budget, would on a cash basis about balance our total budget.

"May we reiterate request for your assistance in meeting maturity due April 1 to extent of $2,650,000 we provided balance. Proposed bill provides first guarantee by Canada as payment principal and or interest and or sinking fund in respect to present and or future securities and empowering Lieutenant Governor in Council create an issue perpetual provincial stock paying three per cent. interest third hypothecating subsidy fourth ascertaining maturity date existing bonds holder accepting stock in exchange in full satisfaction fifth to accept lawful money of Canada in full satisfaction sixth act to come into force by proclamation."

Finance Minister Dunning replied:

"Your wire 25th. Do not understand your reference to minutes provincial treasurers meetings. It was fully understood that any province desiring to participate in Loan Council scheme could with Loan Council approval refund entire existing indebtedness under Dominion guarantee also that if any province did not desire to refund existing debt but wished to take advantage of Loan Council arrangement for future borrowing this privilege would also be available under similar conditions.

REFUNDING PROGRAM

"You outline a refunding program which any province participating in Loan Council could be entitled to submit but such suggested program which necessarily involves highly technical matters would naturally be one for detailed analysis and working out with the expert assistance available through Loan Council. Your program does not contemplate what would be position with respect to further borrowings for necessary capital purposes. Necessity for providing means of dealing with future borrowings is obvious otherwise Dominion would be unable to effectively control from time to time extent to which its own credit would be pledged.

"Would also point out that I know of no existing constitutional authority under which Dominion subsidies could be pledged as provided in your proposal. Arrangements under which loans will be made to your province or guarantees given to enable you to refund existing debt have already been reduced to $24,749,000."

NO HOPE FOR REDEMPTION BOND ISSUE

Refunding Plans Will Be Proceeded With at Top Speed

Alberta's maturing bonds of April 1, totalling $3,200,000, remained in default as banks operated on Thursday and hope of their redemption appears gone. Ottawa holds to its purpose of refusing any loan unless the province subscribes to the loan council. The provincial government refuses to accept the Dominion's terms.

STALEMATE REACHED

So a stalemate was reached and even the Imperial Bank offer to make the loan, if the Dominion would guarantee it, went for nothing.

There was no sitting of the house on Wednesday night and no party caucus for government members.

Premier Aberhart said that interest on the maturity was being paid and that holders of maturities there would be taken care of in the refunding plans now under way.

NECESSITY OF SPEED

The delay in refunding actually costs the government $7,000 per day. Explanation of this is that the provincial interest bill is now $15,000 per day whereas under the new scheme it is expected to be only $8,000.

Just what the details of refunding to holders of maturing bonds will be, is not known, but adjustment will be made as to date on being turned in.

2-WAY PARLEY PLANNED FOR FUTURE LOANS

Alberta Situation Forces New Conference Over Proposed Council

OTTAWA, April 2.—Question of dominion-provincial financial relations will be reopened shortly at conferences between Finance Minister Dunning and heads of provincial governments, as a result of yesterday's break between Alberta and the federal government over the proposed Loan Council scheme.

Premier T. D. Pattullo of British Columbia will be here in a week and it is anticipated the governments of Saskatchewan and Manitoba will also be present, with the possibility that Alberta will be represented.

Refusal of Premier Aberhart of Alberta to commit himself to the Loan Council scheme has had the effect of upsetting the plans of the federal government, worked out at three successive conferences with provincial governments and accepted unanimously by all concerned.

What will be the future relations between the Dominion and Alberta remains to be worked out.

Mr. Dunning declared there was no political significance to the loan refusal. He would do the same with any government placed in the same circumstances. While he professed ignorance of the Social Credit doctrine the minister said "if it is sound and good it will prevail. Nothing can stop it."

peatedly made clear to you. You have not answered my question as to whether you object to our proceeding further with legislation designed to implement decisions of committee on financial questions."

The response of Premier Aberhart was:

NO OBJECTION

"Reference your wire 25th we have no objection Dominion government proceeding with constitutional amendment bill. Reference our request for assistance to meet maturity April 1 we still feel we cannot agree to future loan council regulations controlling future borrowings for a refunding advance of this character."

"Beyond recent advance we expect to go through the coming season without asking the Dominion to assist further agricultural relief. Beyond nominal capital expenditures provided in budget we have no additional ones in contemplation. Taking up maturities for some years to come with new stock issue as covered in recent wire the Dominion's assistance should not be required beyond the maturity now under discussion. In view of no existing constitutional authority to hypothecate subsidy we request Dominion to agree to guarantee interest only on proposed stock issue limited in an amount equal to subsidy payable to province.

"The proposed constitutional amendment would give your government power to withhold subsidy in event of default by provinces. We have no objections to this. Our proposal sets out the extent to which we ask the assistance of your government and we feel that it can be carried out and that this limits responsibility to an amount which will at all times be covered by the subsidy. In view of very limited nature of obligation which your government would assume under our proposal we trust you will assist us in meeting April 1 maturity and favorably consider our request."

DUNNING'S REPLY

Two days ago Mr. Dunning sent this reply to the Alberta premier:

"Your wire 27th has been considered by government. You state you cannot agree to accept Loan Council arrangement. Nevertheless you ask us to assist in meeting your April 1 maturity and then you propose to go forward with program outlined in your previous wire involving change in maturities and limitation of interest upon large portion of your outstanding debt.

"Not only would this involve unfair discrimination between holders of obligations maturing April 1 and holders of other securities but it would cause all the injury to provincial credit which we have sought in utmost effort to avoid. Regret very much that your decisions make it impossible for the Dominion to assist you on April 1. Not can Dominion government agree to ask parliament for authority to give Dominion guarantee to your proposed partial refunding program under conditions outlined in your wires."

Mr. Aberhart's reply was brief: "Thank you for your wire 27th if you assist us as request to meet maturity we would agree to refund remainder of bill amount from natural resources settlement as and when agreed upon. On this basis is we would owe the Dominion less than any western province. If you accept our proposal we are confident refunding plan can be carried out."

Mr. Dunning's final telegram read:

"Your wire 30th reached me in house after my wire giving government's decision had been dispatched. You suggest that natural resources settlement amounting to $5,000,000 and interest should be offset against new loan was made to me in January by your provincial treasurer. I pointed out to him that as in the case of Saskatchewan the natural resources award would have to be offset against debts already owing by provinces to Dominion amounting in Alberta's case
